CONTENTS

Preface · vii

PROLOGUE. 1

PART I. EARLY SAHEL AND SAVANNAH 9

CHAPTER 1. The Middle Niger in Pre-Antiquity and Global Context 11

CHAPTER 2. Early Gao 19

CHAPTER 3. The Kingdoms of Ghana: Reform along the Senegal River 30

CHAPTER 4. Slavery and Race Imagined in Bilād As-Sūdān 43

PART II. IMPERIAL MALI 59

CHAPTER 5. The Meanings of Sunjata and the Dawn of Imperial Mali 61

CHAPTER 6. Mansā Mūsā and Global Mali 92

CHAPTER 7. Intrigue, Islam, and Ibn Baṭṭūṭa 144

PART III. IMPERIAL SONGHAY 167

CHAPTER 8. SunniʿAlī and the Reinvention of Songhay 169

CHAPTER 9. The Sunni and the Scholars: A Tale of Revenge 193

CHAPTER 10. Renaissance: The Age of Askia Al-Ḥājj Muḥammad 219

CHAPTER 11. Of Clerics and Concubines 258
PART IV. LE DERNIER DE L'EMPIRE

CHAPTER 12. Of Fitnas and Fratricide: The Nadir of Imperial Songhay

CHAPTER 13. Surfeit and Stability: The Era of Askia Dāwūd

CHAPTER 14. The Rending Asunder: Dominion's End

EPILOGUE. A Thousand Years

Notes · 373
Select Bibliography · 469
Index · 479
Mali’s Mansā Sulaymān could hardly have anticipated the consequences. The mid-eighth/fourteenth-century Muslim ruler of what may have been the most extensive realm Africa has ever known had deposed and imprisoned his chief wife Qāsā, but developments following her release offer critical vistas into the unfolding of Malian society. Supported by a faction of royal women, Qāsā openly defied Sulaymān, daily riding before an entourage of servants to the very gates of the Malian council. Inquiry would uncover intrigue and the early stages of insurgency, with Qāsā mobilizing disaffected royals while guaranteeing the army’s support. Found in neither oral traditions nor external records, the episode is known only because Ibn Battūta happened to be in Mali at the time. A direct threat to Sulaymān’s authority, Qāsā’s rebellion was apparently put down, her ultimate fate unknown. Tantalizingly, Ibn Khaldūn records that with Sulaymān’s death in 761/1360, he was succeeded by a son . . . one Qāsā.

More than tangential, Qāsā’s rebellion is central to the history of early and medieval West Africa. The rise of Islam, the relationship of women to political power, the growth and influence of the domestically enslaved, and the invention and evolution of empire were all unfolding. In contrast to notions of an early Africa timeless and unchanging in its social and cultural categories and conventions, here was a western Savannah and Sahel that from the third/ninth through the tenth/sixteenth centuries witnessed political innovation as well as the evolution of such mutually constitutive categories as race, slavery, ethnicity, caste, and gendered notions of power. By the period’s end, these categories assume significations not unlike their more contemporary connotations.

As indigenous responses to Islam and the trans-Saharan slave trade, these developments serve not only as a corrective to a popularized African past, but also as commentary on interpretations of modernity concerned with the transformation of global markets. Specifically, arguments that the transatlantic slave trade resulted in novel productive capacities (including industrialization) and labor relations, in turn generating new hierarchies of class, race, and gender, are of particular relevance. Here is an opportunity to observe the impact of parallel, anterior processes.

In pursuit of this anterior history, the present study mirrors as it uncovers its unfolding, providing substantive analyses where the evidence is sustaining. As such, successive chapters feature an approach to race informed by multiple rather than singular registers, with local, cultural signification in dialogue with translocal, discursive ideas. Caste—those endogamous groups with differentiated social and productive roles—is treated as processual and unsettled well into the medieval period, at which point begins a discussion of empire as well as gendered notions of power, threading throughout until empire forms the focus. Ethnicity also takes concrete shape, assuming juridical status in the effort to determine enslavement eligibility, and is commensurate with slavery’s expansion under imperial Songhay, for which an equation of reciprocating slaveholder-enslaved interests substitutes for theorizations of proprietary, kinship, and social death.

All of these transformations were engaged with the apparatus of the state and its progression from the city-state to the empire. The transition consistently featured minimalist notions of governance replicated by successive dynasties, providing a continuity of structure as a mechanism of legitimization. Replication had its limits, however, and would ultimately prove inadequate in addressing unforeseen challenges.

To be sure, many aspects of the West African past have little to do with empire, as the region is diverse and complex, with histories often escaping unifying narratives. But as variability is not the focus here, no apology is offered. The small state and the village each have a place at the table, as does empire.

The history of the early and medieval Savannah and Sahel was of a piece with kings and queens and rulers of the earth consolidating lands and resources. Empires expanded and contracted in response to the vagaries of location, in tandem with combinations of creed and greed. The Chinese had long been in imperial formation, transitioning from the Yuan to the Ming dynasties in the eighth/fourteenth century, while Europe was nearing the end of internal transformations that would have global consequences. Bridging the polarities of “Old” and “New” Worlds were the Mongols of the sixth/twelfth and seventh/thirteenth centuries (with the Golden Horde continuing to the tenth/sixteenth), part of whose vast expansion (and fracturing) included integration into states and societies all responding, one way or another, to the call of Islam. Ethnically, racially, and culturally myriad, a Muslim world whose political unity had long ended stretched from Iberia to China to Indonesia. Muslim innovation, largely responsible for linking European and Asian lands and all points in between, served as the conduit through which European medieval thought reconnected with that of ancient predecessors, and as the technological basis for Europe’s “discovery” of Mesoamerican Aztecs and Andean Incas. The eighth/fourteenth century was therefore on the cusp of developments so far-reaching that within a few hundred years the collective human condition would be dramatically (and perchance irrevocably) altered.

It was precisely at this moment that a handsome, precocious, ambitious young ruler pondered the night sky in search of answers. Mansā Mūsā, Sulaymān’s predecessor, had decisions to make. At the head of Mali’s sprawling empire, he was aware of developments elsewhere. He knew of Berber success in engineering a kingdom that, beginning with the late fifth/eleventh century’s religious militancy of the Almoravids, reached from the fringes of West Africa through North Africa into Europe. He may have understood that feats alleged to have been accomplished by the seventh/thirteenth-century founder of the Malian empire, Sunjata, were partially informed by political upheaval to the northwest (al-Maghrib), reconfiguring commerce and travel through the Sahara. As trade with the northeast was also of considerable vintage, Mūsā would have known that the formerly servile Mamluks, just decades following Sunjata’s ascension, had wrested control of Egypt (Miṣr) from the Ayyubids (who ascended under Ṣalāḥ al-Dīn, or Saladin, in 569/1174), occupying the center of the Muslim world with the fall of Baghdad to the Mongols in 655/1258.

Whether in response to these developments, or as an expression of aspirations largely internal, Mali attempted to connect with the outside world, to touch that world directly, without the mediation of Saharan middlemen. Mali was itself in an expansive, transcontinental frame of mind.

The very claim that toward the beginning of the eighth/fourteenth century Mansā Muḥammad b. Qū, grandson or great-grandson of Sunjata, prepared the launch of hundreds of vessels into the Atlantic world, inaugurating West Africa’s own large-scale seafaring venture into the deep, is indicative of the prevailing mood. The labor, material, and organization for the expedition, if it indeed took place, would have been enormous, suggesting a level of ambition on a breathtaking scale, an attempt to reverse patterns of transregional engagement dominant since the Garamantes of Graeco-Roman antiquity, reinforced and intensified by their descendants, the Berber and Tuareg. Organized and financed for the most part in North Africa, such trans-Saharan commerce resulted in accruing transregional expertise and advantage. Even if entirely mythical, the account of Muḥammad b. Qū’s gambit reflects recognition of Mali’s landlocked status, the unknown western sea beckoning resolution. Rather than accounts of new treasure and trading prospects, however, there returned reports of failure at sea and massive loss of life, followed by the disappearance of Muḥammad b. Qū himself who, commanding a second fleet, is never heard from again.

The source attesting to Muḥammad b. Qū ’s Atlantic project was none other than Mansā Mūsā, underscoring that its very “imagining” is far more critical to the question of the mansā’s state of mind than its verifiability; that he would tell such a story more than suggests a desire to transfigure his relationship to the wider world. Whatever his actual ambition, he would settle upon a course that had no parallel elsewhere, though in scope and scale hardly less ambitious than his predecessor’s purported western watery trajectory (and indeed quite consistent with it). For within twelve years of his coming to power, Mansā Mūsā would bring together the considerable resources of the realm to make an unprecedented Pilgrimage to Egypt and Arabia, the known fonts of political and spiritual power, where he would make his case for the recognition of Mali as a peer. Traveling with a retinue of thousands across some 2,700 miles, its effect was nothing less than scintillating, leaving an impression in Europe as well as Egypt. If only brilliant theater, the voyage nonetheless became iconic, emblematic of West Africa’s wealth and potential. In bringing Mali to the world, the mansā succeeded in elevating its global stature while attracting both greater commercial attention and cultural investment. It is Mali’s and, by extension, West Africa’s most illustrious moment.

In undertaking such an extraordinary venture, neither Mansā Mūsā’s precise objectives nor his plans to achieve them are transparent. Maybe he simply wanted to elevate Mali’s profile on the world stage, leveraging influence relative to North Africa by effecting closer relations with the central Islamic lands. Or, he may have been in search of foreign assistance to maximize Mali’s potential, his over-the-top display of wealth designed to persuade needed expertise to relocate to West Africa. It is even conceivable that, reaching the limits of the desert to the north and the forest and savannah to the south, he envisioned a transregional empire by which he could project power into North Africa itself.

For all of the splendor and sizzle of one of the world’s most famous pilgrimages, the fundamental dynamics of transregional commercial relations would not change: financing and routes outside of West Africa remained under the control of trading partners, and this would only intensify over the next several centuries, at the end of which West Africa (and the rest of the continent) would be subject to nations steeped in the knowledge of seafaring.

Furthermore, Mansā Mūsā’s Pilgrimage, in relation to subsequent events, may have taken place from twenty-five to 125 years too soon. He would selectively borrow what he observed, initiating a series of cultural projects in Mali modeled after central Islamic features. However, as weaponry would later prove rather decisive in West Africa’s history, in that moment there were no profound differences between the Mamluks and the Malians, as both relied on archery, cavalry, and lances (though tactics differed). Gunpowder weapons, a technological revolution, had yet to fully develop. As Mansā Mūsā possessed the resources to pay for such technology, their adoption might have better prepared the region for the challenges to come.

Songhay’s Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad of Songhay would subsequently appropriate Mūsā’s vision of West Africa as an international peer among other great powers. But if he and his successors were aware of gunpowder weapons, there is no evidence they sought to acquire them. This is a puzzle, as firearms had been adopted by Sahelian neighbors farther east in Kanem-Bornu, their advantage over conventional implements perhaps far from apparent in the west.

The ninth/fifteenth-century shift in the political center of gravity from Mali to Songhay would usher in a new era of international relations, its dynamics characterized by intellectual vibrancy as well as social transformation. Imperial Songhay represents a height of West African cultural efflorescence and political imagination, its success characterized by novel policies of political integration. Its pursuit of erudition is unprecedented in West Africa’s history, underscoring much that is distinctive about the realm. With its elite’s avid embrace of Islam, Songhay became better integrated into the Muslim world, but it would not be afforded sufficient time to realize further advances.

What follows is both an account and a critique of West African empire and attendant social and cultural transformations, a tale of immense potential undermined by regrettable decisions and the inflexibility of critical conventions. It is an analysis for which the aperture is widened to include multiple social registers, representing a history from both above and below, exploiting sources that ostensibly reflect the interests of the former, but which actually expose intimacies between polarities of advantage and disadvantage, revealing interdependencies of power and debility.

If Songhay represents the height of medieval West African statecraft, it was preceded by experimentation in imperial Mali, from which it borrowed heavily. Polity in the early West African Savannah and Sahel often rested in the city-state, in the singular urban collection of communities usually connected to inter/intraregional commerce. This was certainly true of early Gao and Ghana (though the latter may have extended power over satellite settlements and outposts). In contrast, the seventh/thirteenth-century establishment of Mali in the full Savannah saw a projection of authority from the center to outlying areas, in many but not all instances culturally aligned with that center, having previously boasted a political independence of longue durée. A critical threshold was crossed when such states no longer simply paid tribute to the center, but assumed its political identity and embraced a subordinate position within an emerging superstructure. The evolving center would regulate not only relations with external powers, but also relations between what were now provinces, so that the rise of imperialism was an ordered process of horizontal linkages between distinct communities and vertical alignments among elites. Songhay would go beyond its predecessor in incorporating disparate and culturally dissimilar ethnic groups not only into the polity, but into the very fabric of the ruling family itself, knitting the empire together in a conscious strategy of political pluralism.

Directly connected to empire’s formulation in West Africa was the emergence of both Islam and domestic slavery, and it is impossible to understand imperial Mali and Songhay without appreciating the close if not inextricable relationship between these two forces. As Islam and empire became tightly intertwined, slavery became increasingly insinuated within both. In turn, religion and labor were highly gendered, and in ways deeply woven into the fabric of society and its collective consciousness.

Songhay’s rise and ensuing control of the middle Niger valley help to explain Mali’s decline, while epidemics and civil war precipitated exigency in Songhay, contributing to its ultimate demise. But if Songhay, with all of its achievements, yet fell short of its full potential, domestic slavery’s expansion may have been an important factor, as it destabilized subject societies and redirected their potential. Widespread latifundia and large armies are impressive, but their dependency on servile labor helped establish a pattern of exploitation that would only metastasize over time.

Journeying into such a storied and multifaceted past is necessarily undertaken through thoroughfares of human memory, now recorded on parchment, then orally stylized. Rather than their consideration in discrete and disaggregated form, the current study argues they are best understood when placed in mutual conversation, together with archaeological and epigraphic evidence where possible—in effect, a new archive. Such an approach best yields results when immersed in the dynamics of context, in which circumstances of production are extensively engaged. Great attention is therefore given to the personal, familial, cultural, and political dimensions of recalling the past.
What can be stated at this early juncture is that critical components of collective testimony—the written and oral documentation—were conceptually innovative and wholly unprecedented for period and place, representing either the creation or adoption of memorative technologies in response to novel developments. Oral and written tableaux center very different principals to tell stories for entirely different audiences, and for radically different purposes. Their conjunctive examination reveals a process as integral to the accounts as the characters and plots they feature. The result is a wholly new interpretation of West Africa’s early and medieval history, facilitating its relocation from the periphery to the center of world history.

Map 1: West and North Africa, Tenth to the Sixteenth Centuries
INDEX

Abbasid sharīf, 328
Abbasids, 39, 235, 245, 328
‘Abd ‘Allāh b. (“son of”) Yāsīn, 36–37. See also Almoravids ‘Abd al-Jabbar (faqīh), 198
‘Abd al-Malik (son of Askia Ishāq Bēr), 335
‘Abd al-Raḥmān (qāḍī of Mali), 155, 164
‘Abd al-Raḥmān b. (“son of”) Abū ‘Abd Allāh Anda ag-Muḥammad the Elder, 216, 291; daughters, 217
‘Abd al-Raḥmān b. (“son of”) Abī Bakr (temporary qāḍī of Timbuktu), 271–72
‘Abd al-Wāsi’a al-Masrātī (merchant), 345–46
"Abdā" (or Abda, name of a plantation), 340–51, 353–54. See also plantation
Abdelhamid Abu Zayd, 369–72
‘ābīd (“slaves,” s. ‘abd), 136, 139, 161, 261, 302, 338, 340–51, 353–54. See also slavery Abū ‘l-Abbās Ahmad b. (“son of”) al-Ḥāk (Mamluk official), 116–19. See also mihmandār Abū ‘l-ABBAS Ahmad Buryu (“the Handsome”) b. (“son of”) Ahmād (faqīh), (216–17
Abū ‘Abd Allāh Anda ag-Muḥammad al-Kāborī (a wālī), 156, 214–17, 259, 283–88, 293–95
Abū ‘Abd Allāh Muḥammad (qāḍī from Sijilmasa), 155
Abū ‘Abd Allāh Muḥammad b. (“son of”) Wāsūl, 134
Abū Bakr/Muḥammad b. (“son of”) Abī Bakr al-Tūrī (father of Askia al-Ḥājj Muḥammad), 229
Abū Bakr/Bata Manden Bori/Abubakar II, 94–95, 98
Abū Bakr b. (“son of”) Aḥmad Bēr, 272, 292, 296
Abū Bakr b. (“son of”) al-Ḥājj Aḥmad b. ‘Umar b. Muḥammad Aqīt, 284, 292
Abū Bakr b. (“son of”) al-Qāḍī al-Ḥājj, 198–99, 272
Abū Ḥāmid, 48, 53
Abū ‘l-Ḥasan (Marinid sultan), 104, 145–47
Abū ‘l-Ḥasan ‘Ali b. (“son of”) Amīr Ḥājīb (governor of Old Cairo), 100, 107, 115, 119, 159
Abū ‘Inān (Marinid sultan), 148
Abū ‘l-Rūḥ ‘Īsā al-Zawāwī (faqīh), 108–9, 121
Abū Tāshfīn (Tlemcen ruler), 104, 117
Abū Zayd Abū al-Ḥaḥmān b. (“son of”) Qāḍī Maḥmūd b. ‘Umar (Timbuktu), 217, 291, 294 al-Adāla (sultan of Agades), 239
Adelāsegh and Aligurran (oral tradition), 227–28
Adiki-farma (unspecified office), 309
Agadir, 353 age of jihad (in West Africa), 19
aqqāl kuray (“leaders of the whites”), 232–33
Arab Spring, 369
Arabia, 4, 50, 54, 174, 177, 219
Arabo-Berbers, 86, 265, 268, 335, 364
Arbi (problematic servile group), 209, 254, 261, 307–8. See also slavery Arbinda: juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6 archaeology, 13–18, 23, 31, 33–34, 38–39
Arbinda: juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Arminia (group): juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Aryu bt. (“daughter of”) Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad (wife of Balma’a Muḥammad Kiray), 297–98, 323
Ashāb (“officials”), 232–33
Ashar-mondo (either assistant to Timbuktu qādī or chief of police), 265 Asia, 16, 47, 49, 111
Askia: anterior appearance of term, 227; transition in meaning, 245–46
Askia Baghna, 189, 208
Askia Dāwūd b. (“son of”) Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad (former fāri-mondo and kanfārī), 246, 334–56, 366; and Askia Ismā’īl, 328; and “book repositories,” 335; burial, 353; campaigns of, 326, 336–39; character of, 335; comparison with Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad, 353–54; custom visits to Timbuktu, 266–67, 277; and eunuchs, 307; as kanfārī, 331; and maks in Jenne, 273–76; and Mali, 321, 337; and Qādī al-Āqib, 351–53; and Risāla of Ibn Abī Zayd, 335; and royal women, 339–40; and slavery’s reconsideration, 340–51; and “treasury depositories,” 335
Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad, 5; and birth of nephew Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 321; burial place of, 361; and campaigns, 236–45, 326; and concubinage, 300–311; and conspiracy against Sunni ‘Ali, 205–7; cosmopolitanism of, 218–20; demise of, 328–29; and “Dum,” 339; and dynasty’s beginning, 222–24; and eunuchs, 307; and exile in Kangaga Island, 321–28; and “gifts” to ‘ulamā’, 302, 348; imperial structure under, 245–51; and Jenne, 188; and office of kanfārī, 131; and Kanfārī ‘Umar, 336; as khalifa of Abassid sharīf, 328; Mande background of, 174, 258; and memorizing Qurʾān, 335; as Muḥammad b. Abū Bakr al-Ṭūrūdī, 228–29; parallels with Mansā Mūsā, 110, 230, 233, 236, 371; Pilgrimage of, 230–36, 256–57, 371; pluralism policy of, 300–311, 371; and prayers of Mūri Magha (Maghan) Kankoi, 319–20; and Qādī Maḥmūd, 229–30, 268–73; and Qādī ‘Umar (Yindubughu village), 274; and restoration of Sankore, 224–25, 268–69, 371; and special quarters for Mossi, 338. See also Tondi-farma Muḥammad Ture
Askia Ishāq b. (“son of”) Askia Dāwūd (also Ishāq II, or Askia Ishāq Zughrānī), 278, 361–65; and battle with Balma’a Muḥammad al-Ṣadiq b. Dāwūd, 361–63; demise of, 365; as son of Fāţima Buṣ Zughrānī, 301
Askia Ishāq Bēr (or Ishāq Kadibini, Ishāq “the Black Stone”) b. (“son of”) Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad, 242–43, 329–33; demise of, 332–33, 336; and maks in Jenne, 273–76; and Mawläy/Mawläya Abū ´l-Abbas Aḥmad, 331, 353; murderous ways of, 329–30
Askia Ismā’īl b. (“son of”) Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad, 310–11, 326–29; Askia al-Hājj Muḥammad’s investiture of, 328; and betrayal of Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 326–27; and drought and famine, 342; and flight from Askia...
Askia Ismā’īl b. (continued) Mūsā to Walata/Biru, 316–18; and rescue of Askia al-hājī Muḥammad from Kangaga Island, 321, 328

Askia Muḥammad Bānī b. (“son of”) Askia al-hājī Muḥammad, 245-46, 307, 358–62, 367; demise and burial of, 361; as son of Amisi Kāra, 301; and succession from Askia al-Hājj b. Askia Dāwūd, 358; and Timbuktu, 278

Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya (or Mār Bonkan, former kanfāri) b. (“son of”) Kanfāri ‘Umar, 248, 310, 318–31; demise of, 330–331; exile of, 327–28; and Masina raid, 353; and mother Āmina Kiraw, 301, 322; as youth studying at Sankore, 322; and Timbuktu, 278

Askia Muḥammad Gao (last of imperial Songhay’s Askias and former balma’a), 356–57, 363–67

Askia Mūsā b. (“son of”) Askia Ismā’īl Muḥammad (former fari-mondio), 316–20; alleged Pilgrimage of, 233, 247; and complaints about ‘Alī Fulan, 247, 309–311; murderous ways of, 329–30; and opposition to Bengafaroma Balla, 309–311; as son of Zāra Kabirukan, 301, 306; and Timbuktu, 277–78

Askia Nūḥ, 365–67

askia-alfa (aide), 287, 346–47

Askia-alfa Bukar al-Anbārī, 346–47

‘Askiyā’ (possible meaning), 226

askiyate, 247, 249, 310, 315–16, 320–22, 329, 336, 360, 365

asku/askiw (“young male slave”), 227

astronomy, 284

Atakurma Diakité (eunuch), 362. See also eunuchs

Ataram, 338–39, 341, 360. See also Sura Bantanba

Atlantic voyage (Malian), 100–103, 111

Awdaghust, 7, 22, 32–37, 40, 44, 46, 113, 125, 131–32, 217

Awgham, 33

Awllī, 7, 22, 32, 34, 37, 39–40, 95, 103, 223, 366

al-Ayaman, 24, 43, 174

Ayyubids, 3, 113

“Azanegues,” 152. See also Amazigh

Azawad (region), 15, 185, 188–91, 209, 369

Aztecs, 5

baab-ixe (children of the same father), 301

Ba’aniyya (village), 221

bābali-farma (perhaps “minister of agriculture”), 248, 254

badal (person of extraordinary spirituality, a Sufi category), 195, 198, 283, 293

Baddibu, 72

Badr al-Dīn al-Halabi, 104–5, 113

Bafing River, 67

Baghānajari (governor of Baghāna province), 130, 208, 237–40, 244–46, 251, 307, 318, 360, 362

Baghānajari Ma’ Qutu Kayta/Magha Kūtu Keita, 239

Baghayoro (maraboutic clan), 91, 157

Baghdad, 3, 33, 40, 113

Baguirmi (southeast of Lake Chad), 340

Bakabūl (ruler of Gurma), 329

Bakhoy (or Semene) River, 108

Balandugu, 88

Balma-Dyinde (Timbuktu quarter), 266–67

Balma’a Khalīl b. (“son of”) Askia al-hājī Muḥammad, 248, 339

Balma’a Muḥammad b. (“son of”) Askia Ismā’īl, 363

Balma’a Muḥammad Dādū’s sister Dalla), 339

Balma’a Muḥammad Dundumiya, 248

Balma’a Muḥammad Kiray (son of Sunni ‘Ali’s sister), 231, 239–40, 246, 307, 318–20, 323, 326, 329

Balma’a Muḥammad al-Ṣadiq b. (“son of”) Dādūd, 278, 359–63, 367

Bamako, 369
Bambara/Bamana, 18, 44–45, 65, 68, 107, 188, 338; as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
bambī/banbī/bembe (royal dais), 64, 139
Bambuk (auriferous zone), 32, 34, 39, 75, 95, 106–7, 223, 366
Bana-farma (responsible for paying salaries), 319
Bana-farma Daku, 262
Bana-farma ḥāq (son of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad), 319–20
Banb’w (province), 126
Bandiagara escarpment, 188, 191, 206, 223, 245, 305–6, 338–39, 366
Bangu (territory), 130, 195. See also Benga
Bani (military leader in mountains), 337
Bani (region), 222, 251
Bani Asbah (market), 331
Bani River, 95, 127, 130, 137, 222–23, 242, 310, 339, 366
Bani-koi, 222, 251
baniya (slave), 226
Banjū (nonroyal wife of Mansā Sulaymān), 148–51
Banū Gudala, division of Ṣanhāja, 36–37
Banū Ḥassān Arabs, 331
Banū Naghmārata, 32. See also Jula; Maraka; Wangāra/Wankara Baol, 151, 179
bar-koi (possibly related to commerce, cavalry, or horses), 231, 249 Bar-koi Bukar (“the Zughrānī”), 231; and brother Armayizzi, 231 Bara River, 129, 208
Bara-koi Amar, 360, 362
Bara-koi Mansā Kūra, 222, 225, 232–33, 247
Bara-koi Mansā Mūsā, 299
Barābīsh Arabs, 336. See also Arabs bārai-koi (“master of horses”), 360–61
Barbūshi-mondio (tax collector in Timbuktu), 256, 265–67, 336
Baribu, 238, 305. See also Borgu
Barīsa, 37, 39, 44
Basra, 28, 33
“Batimaussa/Batimansa,” 153
Bawaghuri (province), 126
Baybars, al-Ẓāhir, 88, 96 baydān (“white”), 32, 46, 48–50, 54, 56–57, 281–82; as applied to the Fulbe, 188–89. See also “race” beads (glass), 16–17
Bendugu (province), 95, 127, 137, 223, 242–44, 330, 339, 366
Benga (province), 130, 195, 208–9, 248, 341. See also Bengal
Benga-farma (governor of Benga province), 128–30, 208, 231, 248, 277–78, 301, 308–9, 316–19, 324, 361–63
Benga-farma Ṣāli Kindānkangai, 231
Benga-farma Ṣāli Yamra/Yamara, 308–9
Benga-farma Ṣāli Yandi, 248
Benga-farma. Balla (son of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad), 248, 277–78, 308–9, 316–19, 324; as buried alive, 319; and claim of ḥurma of books, 319
Benga-farma Ḥābib Allāh, 248
Benga-farma Maḥmūd b. (“son of”) Askia Ismā’il, 361
Benga-farma Muḥammad Hayku b. (“son of”) Faran ’Abd Allāh b. Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad, 363
Benga-farma Sulaymān Kangāga, 248
Beniyya, 21
Berbers, 3, 24; as slaves to “blacks,” 28–29, 67; under Malian control, 127, 131; and the Zenata, 112. See also Kel Tamashiq; Tuareg
Berte (maraboutic clan), 137
Bida (snake), 38, 234
Big Dry (in West Africa), 14 big history, 13–14
bilād as-sūdān (“land of the blacks”), 20, 28–29, 36, 43–57, 111, 127, 151–54, 370–71
Bilāl b. Rabāḥ (Companion of the Prophet), 70, 91. See also Bilali Bunama
Bilali Bunama (Sena Bilal), 70, 91. See also Bilāl b. Rabāḥ
Binta bt. (“daughter of”) Askia Dāwūd (wife of a Maghsharan-koi), 297–98, 318
INDEX

Bir Falaku (pre-independent Songhay ruler), 180
Birkat al-Ḥabash (near Cairo), 114, 120, 155
Biskra/Biskara (in eastern Algeria), 7, 122–23
Bitu/Bughu, 153
“blessed of God” (euphemism for enslavement of children), 236, 348 boats. See pirogues; watercraft Bobo (group), 82; as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6 book sales, 121, 263, 287, 335 Borgu (province, south of Dendi), 190, 238–39, 243, 247, 255, 337, 352; as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6. See also Baribu bori (cult), 203. See also ancestral religion; holey Bornu. See Kanem-Bornu Bozo (or Sorogo), 254
bronze, 17
Bukar b. (“son of”) Askia Muḥammad
Bonkana Kirya, 321, 356–57
Bukar Kirin-kirin (son of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad), 316, 318
Bukar Shīlī-ije. See Dendi-fari (and Hikoi)
Bundu, 85, 240
Bure (auriferous zone), 38, 89, 95, 106–8, 223, 366
Busa (group and town): as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6, 337
Busu-koi (ruler of Busa), 239
Buyu (area), 341
Bytra, 126
Cadamosto, Alvise da, 103–4, 152–53 camels: as fighting force for Awdaghust, 33, 35; as introduced into al-Maghrib, 17; use in flight from Sunni ‘Aṭī, 194; use in Moroccan invasion, 364–67
canal: at Ra’s al-Mā, 191, 210
Canary Current, 101–2
cannibalism, 45, 121, 163–64
Cantor/Kantora, 153
captifs de case, 341
caravans, 23, 28, 32, 135, 152, 159, 256; and headloading, 162; and Pilgrimage of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad, 234, 260; and Pilgrimage of Mansā Mūsā, 117–25 caste, 1–2, 88–91, 186, 338, 340–51, 353–54. See also mābī; nyamakala; servility; slavery; smiths
Castile, 112
Catalan Atlas, 159
Caucasians, 47
Cayor/Kajor, 151–53, 179
Chi (dynasty). See Sunni
China, 2, 12–13, 16–17, 53, 111–12
cire banniya (newly acquired slaves), 346–47. See also horson
City of the Dead (Cairo), 114–15
city-state, 5–6 civilization, 50–57
climes, 22–23
coat of mail (dir min ḥadīd), 357, 360. See also quilted armor “Commander of the Faithful” (amīr al-mu‘minīn), 25, 245, 311, 319 correspondence, 39–40, 113, 141–42, 171, 200, 211, 250, 244, 261, 287, 303, 307, 317, 331, 352, 362
cameralism, 45, 121, 163–64
Cantor/Kantora, 153
camels: as fighting force for Awdaghust, 33, 35; as introduced into al-Maghrib, 17; use in flight from Sunni ‘Aṭī, 194; use in Moroccan invasion, 364–67
canal: at Ra’s al-Mā, 191, 210
Canary Current, 101–2
cannibalism, 45, 121, 163–64
Cantor/Kantora, 153
captifs de case, 341
caravans, 23, 28, 32, 135, 152, 159, 256; and headloading, 162; and Pilgrimage of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad, 234, 260; and Pilgrimage of Mansā Mūsā, 117–25 caste, 1–2, 88–91, 186, 338, 340–51, 353–54. See also mābī; nyamakala; servility; slavery; smiths
Castile, 112
Catalan Atlas, 159
Caucasians, 47
Cayor/Kajor, 151–53, 179
Chi (dynasty). See Sunni
China, 2, 12–13, 16–17, 53, 111–12
cire banniya (newly acquired slaves), 346–47. See also horson
City of the Dead (Cairo), 114–15
city-state, 5–6 civilization, 50–57
climes, 22–23
coat of mail (dir min ḥadīd), 357, 360. See also quilted armor “Commander of the Faithful” (amīr al-mu‘minīn), 25, 245, 311, 319
correspondence, 39–40, 113, 141–42, 171, 200, 211, 250, 244, 261, 287, 303, 307, 317, 331, 352, 362 concubinage, 46, 159, 161, 189, 195, 211, 239, 247, 249, 299–311, 323, 371. See also slavery Congo River, 218 copper: ancient mines, 16; in Mali, 108–9, 149; and Wagadu, 31
correspondence, 39–40, 113, 141–42, 171, 200, 211, 250, 244, 261, 287, 303, 307, 317, 331, 352, 362
Dagomba: as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Dakadiala/Dakajalan (town), 79, 85–86, 135

For general queries, contact webmaster@press.princeton.edu dālī, 201, 204
dali-ma-sigi (“quest”), 78, 91, 97
dalīlu (“powers of sorcery”), 76
Dalla (sister of Askia Dāwūd), 339
Damagan-Farani, 95–96
Damagaran (area), 345
“Damdam,” 44–57, 67, 304. See also “Lamlam”
Damura (province), 126
Dan Mansā Wulan Tamba, 71–72
Dan Mansā Wulani, 71–72
Danagha (village), 221
Dankaran Tuman (son of Sassuma Berete, half-brother of Sunjata), 75–81, 180
dār al-Islām, 47, 268, 281
Dar Tichit, 7, 22, 31–32, 66, 86, 205
Dar’a (valley near Marrakesh), 331
Daw, 66–67, 71. See also Do (town); Sangara
Dendi (region), 21, 95, 173, 190, 201, 209–10, 220–24, 244–45, 252, 337–44, 365–66
Dendi-fari (governor of Dendi region), 208, 210, 231, 248, 252, 278, 337
Dendi-fari Afumba, 189–90, 208, 221–24, 231, 248
Dendi-fari (and former Hi-koi) Bukar ‘Alī Dūdu b. (“son of”) ‘Alī Fulan (or Bukar Shīlī-ije), 246, 326, 330, 337, 358
Dendi-fari Mār Tumzu, 326–27
Dencyanke (dynasty in Futa Toro), 240–41
Le Devoir de Violence (“Bound to Violence”), 370–71. See also Ouologuem, Yambo Dia/Diaha, 15–18, 86, 125–30, 135–37, 156–58, 221–22, 225, 279, 288; “city of God,” 158. See also al-hājj Salim Suwāre; Jakhanke Diafunu, 85, 95, 126–27, 223, 366
Dialan-Tinfarin (towns), 237, 239, 251, 255, 366
Diara, 95, 131, 176, 223, 240–45, 310, 366. See also Futa Kungi; Kaniaga Diawambe (group), 330. See also Zughrānī Diawara (clan), 228
al-Dībāj al-mudhahhab fī a’yān ‘ulamā’ al-madhhab, 171. See also Ibn Farhūn Dibikarala (in Mali), 337
al-Dimashqī, 39, 45, 49, 52
Dimba Dumbi al-Fulānī (leader in Masina), 237 din-tūr (“burning brand,” insignia of Askia dynasty), 236 al-Dinawari, 48
Dinga, 32, 39
Direi (town), 95, 185, 191, 195–96, 223, 366
Dirma, 95, 129–30, 208–9, 222–23, 225, 248, 300, 329, 366
Dirma-koī, 129, 208, 222, 225, 251, 297, 319 disease: infectious, 334; and leprosy, 156; and new environment introduced south of Sahara, 18; and trypanosomiasis, 150; veneral, 334 Djallonkés, 79, 82. See also Futa Jallon
Djarma, 28
Do (original “masters of the river”), 22
Do (town), 67. See also Daw; Sangara
Do-Kamissa, 71–76, 80, 298. See also koba; Sogolon Kedju Dogon, 202, 303; as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Domögö Nyamögö Jata, 71–72
Dona Beatriz Kimpa Vita (of Kongo), 298–99 donso karamoko (“master hunter”), 70, 84. See also hunter guilds; simbon donson ton (hunter guilds), 70, 84, 93–100, 111, 142. See also donson karamoko; hunter guilds; simbon Douentza (town), 188, 223, 366 drought, 38, 67, 234, 327, 342, 357–58. See also famine drum lords, 39, 250, 309, 357, 361
DuBois, Felix, 276–77
Dūghā “the interpreter,” 64, 139, 148, 160
“Dum” (mountain dwellers), 338–39, 343
Durar al-hisān fī akhbār mulūk al-sūdān, 359–60 earthen ablution, 35, 39, 139–40, 146–48, 249–51, 337, 361
East Africans, 103, 111, 162–65, 210
For general queries, contact webmaster@press.princeton.edu
INDEX

Elmina, 218, 332 empire: in West Africa, 1–2, 5–6; and omission of West Africa in world history, 12–13
epigraphy: and Gao, 24–27
Es-Souk/Essuk (“the market”). See Tadmekka Ethiopia, 50, 54, 121–22, 160. See also Habasha ethnicity, 1–2; and slavery, 303–6, 372–73
eunuchs, 21, 43, 249, 252, 303, 323–25, 332, 341, 360–63; as cavalry, 307, 324–25; as huku-kuri-koi in Songhay, 246, 324. See also khādam maqtū’; slavery Europe: Almoravid movement into, 3; and Canary Current, 101–2; captives from, 47; and classical sources, 17; and “discoveries” elsewhere, 3; and exports to West Africa, 255; and imperialism, 2, 12, 56, 111–12, 306, 372; and impressions of blacks, 54; and impressions of Mansā Mūsā, 4; and impressions of West Africa, 92, 111; medieval thought of, 2; and la mission civilisatrice, 163; and Morocco, 353; and racism, 56; and seafarers and travelers, 126, 151–54, 218; slaves from, 47; and Songhay conquest, 364; and trade along African coasts, 144, 315–16, 332–33 fadenyā (relations between father and offspring), 77 Fadima Mūsā (son of and successor to Mārī Jāṭā b. (“son of”) Mansā Maghā), 150–51
fado (“governor”), 32
Fakoli Koroma (Koli Mūsā Sissoko, Ssumaoro’s nephew), 81–86, 89–96
Faleme, river and valley, 39, 67, 239–40, 244 fama (“governor”), 86–87, 246, 248. See also fama; farba; fari fama of famas (as “emperor”), 87, 246 famine, 38, 187, 234, 327, 342, 355–57, 357–59, 367. See also drought fanfa (“chief of slaves,” pl. fanāfī), 340–47 faran, 129, 131–32, 153, 208, 239, 241–42, 307, 320–21, 331, 337, 363. See also fama; farba; fari Faran ‘ Abd Allāh, 320, 363
Faran-sūra (northern regional military commander), 131–32, 241–42 farāriyya (“emirs” in Mali, probably includes sons of subject rulers), 139–42, 148–49, 161, 251. See also sons of vassal kings Farāsa (mother of Dirma-koi Mānankā), 297–98 farba, 113, 125, 129, 139, 158–164. See also fama; faran; fari; farma
Farba Husayn, 125
Farba Mūsā, 129
Farba Sulaymān, 158, 160, 164
Fari (village in Dendi), 201
fari-mondio (“chief of fields,” tax collector), 129, 247, 254, 309, 327–30, 335–37, 343, 355
Fari-mondio Sūma Kutubāki, 327–28, 330
“Farosangoli,” 153
Farwiyūn, 31. See also Soninke
Fati (sister of Askia Muhammad Bonkana Kirya, wife of Askia Iṣmā’īl), 322
Fātiḥa, 200
Fatimids, 115, 268–69
fatuwā (pl. fatāwil, legal decision), 266, 271, 285, 304 fay’ (spoils of war), 255
Fernandes, Joāo, 152
Fernandes, Valentim, 153–54, 162
Fez, 7, 22, 112, 145–46, 208, 214–25, 281, 283, 293, 304, 353, 363–64; and Sudanese students, 156–58
Fezzan (Fezzān, Qazān), 7, 22, 23, 28–29, 43, 114, 123, 282, 290 fiets (iqiātī), 114, 161. See also agriculture; hārth; plantation al-Filālī al-Zubāyrī (official at Taghaza), 352–53 Finā’ qadar al-abkār (“the door of destiny of the virgins”), 195 fiqh (Islamic jurisprudence), 155–56, 284, 291 first-singers, 64
INDEX

fisherfolk. in ancient Jenne-jeno, 17; Bozo, 254; Do, 21–22; Somono, 210, 254; Sorko, 21–22
fitna (“time of troubles”), 205, 279, 315–33, 342, 358–62 foli, 64
Fondoko Jājī Tumāne (Fulbe leader), 337
Fran Kamara (of Tabon), 76–79, 82, 86, 89–90
French, 35, 66, 68, 171, 177, 370
Fūdiye al-faqīh Muḥammad Sānū al-Wan-gārī (Jenne), 202, 213, 289
Fulbe: and bayḍān, 189; and brigandry, 353; as juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6; in Mali, 128; in Middle Niger, 301; and movement out of Sahara, 16; as part of Kurtey, 211; as pastoralists, 18; in Senegal valley, 37, 220; in Songhay, 211–12, 220; and Soninke, 31; and Wārjābī, 36–38; of Was-sulu, 87. See also Hal Pulaaren Funduku Būbu Maryam (of Masina), 356–57 fuqahā’ (jurists, s. faqīh), 139, 156–58, 196, 214, 287 al-Fuṣṭāt (south of Cairo), 114
Futa Jallon, 79, 240. See also Djallonkés
Futa Kingui, 85, 131, 240–45, 255, 310, 341. See also Diara; Kaniaga Futa Toro, 126, 176, 228, 240 futurifu (horn for Air), 321
Fututi (village), 205

gabtanda (type of drum), 321
Gadei, 23
Gajaga. See Guidimakha
Galen, 52
Gao Zakaria, 233
Gao-Kukiya, 308–11, 320, 327, 331, 335–36, 339–54, 363; and Almoravids, 26–27, 38; as ancient urban complex, 17–18, 277; and booty from Mali under Askia Dāwūd, 338; as city-state, 5–6, 19–27; and civil war, 360–63; contemporary, 369–72; as described by Leo Africanus, 249, 255–56; and end of Zuwā/Juwā/Jā’ dynasty, 181–82; and eunuchs, 307; and Gao Ancien (Old Gao), 23; and Gao-Saney (Gao-Sanē, Sarnāh), 23, 26; and imperial Mali, 123–26, 179–80; and independence from Mali, 212; and Kanfāri Muḥammad Bonkana b. Askia Dāwūd, 355–56; khaṭīb of, 335; and military garrison under the Sunnis, 251–52; and Mori Koyra, 258–63; as origin of the Gow or Gaw, 21–22; population estimate of, 220; as recognized by the Genoese, 152; and relations with Timbuktu under the Askias, 258–311; and relations with Timbuktu under the Sunnis, 229–30; ruler-lists of, 24, 241–29; and Sākūra, 99, 123–24; and shift in power under Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 322
Garamantes (presumably early representation of Tuareg). 3, 17
Gelwaar, 85
gender: in early Mali, 63; and labor, 6; and political and spiritual power of women, 1–2, 71–91, 298; and race and slavery, 43–51. See also taxation Genoese, 112, 151–54
Ghadames, 28, 122–23, 277
Ghana: and Almoravids, 36–42; and Aw- dadghust, 32–37, 40, 44; as city-state, 5–6; and connections to Mali and Songhay, 212, 259; gold in, 31, 39, 44; government in, 33–36; and length of existence, 41–42; as Malian province, 87, 126; and periods of reform, 19–20, 26–27; slavery in, 44; and Soninke, 220; and title of ruler, 31. See also Kaya-magha (Kayama’a); Wagadu gharāma (extralegal levy), 136, 261, 267–68. See also taxation Ghat, 7, 22, 114, 123. See also Fezzan Gobir, 243, 247, 251; juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6 gold: Akan fields of, 237; and Bambuk, 32, 34, 39, 75, 95, 106–7, 223, 366;
gold (continued) as bracelets confiscated from Songhay soldiers by Moroccans, 365; and Bure, 38, 89, 95, 106–8, 223, 366; and Ghana, 31, 39, 44; and Mali, 107–9, 121–22, 142, 149, 162; as a "plant," 121–22, 370; and Songhay, 231, 234

Golden Horde, 4. See also Mongols

Gomes, Diogo, 153–54

Gomes Eannes de Zurara, 152

Grand Council (Mali), 87, 94, 96–97, 139–41, 149

Grenada, 48, 112, 364

gnawa/zanāwa, 55

griots, 61–91, 164, 228, 250, 284, 317, 322, 328, 338. See also jeli; oral sources

Guidimakha (Gajaga), 16

gulām (slave), 359. See also slavery

Gulf of Mexico, 102

Gundam (town), 341

“Gunimenssa,” 152

gunpowder weapons, 7

Gurma (between Gao and Timbuktu), 191, 206–7

Gurma (or Gurmanche, a group): juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6

gūro (kola nut), 340–41

Ḥabasha, 29, 48–53

Ḥabīb b. (“son of”) Abī ‘Ubayda al-Fihrī, 45

Ḥaddu b. (“son of”) Yūsuf (Moroccan official), 259

ḥadīth (traditions of the Prophet), 283–84

Hafsids, 112

al-Hajar (in Bandiagara escarpment), 338, 362. See also Bandiagara escarpment al-Hajj (prominent Timbuktu family), 195, 198, 216, 283. See also al-Qādī al-Hājj al-hājj Ahmad b. ("son of") ‘Umar b. Muḥammad Aqīt (faqīh), 194, 205–6, 225, 235, 290–94, 327, 332

al-hājj Salīm Suwāre, 157–58

al-ḥājj ʿUmar, 240

al-Ḥājj Yūnus, 99, 106

Hal Pulaaren, 37, 189, 220. See also Fulbe

Ḥām b. Nūḥ, 48–55, 70. See also Hamitic curse

Hamana and Dioma (branches of Keita clan), 151

al-Ḥamdānī, 31

Hammād Allāh, 261–62, 329

harth, 340–51. See also agriculture; fiefs; plantation

Hārūn Fāta Ṭuru/Fati Tura-jie (son of Askia Dāwūd and Fāta Ṭuru/Fati Tura), 339

ḥāṣal-farma (unspecified responsibilities), 362

Ḥaṣal-farma ʿAlū w. (“offspring/descendent of”) Sabīl, 362 al-Ḥasan b. ("son of") Muḥammad al-Wazzān al-Zayyāṭī. See Leo Africanus

Hausa slave, 348–49

Hausa women rulers, 298

Ḥāwa Da-koi (mother of Hombori-koi Mansa), 297–98

Hawk (village south of Timbuktu), 205–6

Hebrews, 49, 54, 207. See also Jews

Henry the Navigator (Dom Henrique), 152

Herodotus, 48

hi-koi (military official overseeing the sun-ni’s river fleet), 208, 210, 252

Hi-koi ʿAlī Dādu, 246, 366–37

Hi-koi Bukar, 190

Hi-koi Mūsā, 336, 339

Hi-koi Ya’ti, 190

ḥijāb, 328

Ḥijāz, 7, 41, 65, 97, 113, 118, 122, 155, 234

ḥikam (of Ibn ‘Aṭā Allāh al-Iṣkandari), 284

Hodh, 7, 22, 31, 95, 131, 188, 223, 241. See also Suradugu holey (cult), 203. See also ancestral religion; bori

Hombori-koi (governor of Hombori), 330
Hombori-koi Mansa, 360, 362
Homer, 48
horon (freeborn), 88
horson (category of domestic slaves), 346–47. See also cire banniya huku-kuri-koi ("master of the palace interior"), 233, 240, 246–47, 257, 307–9, 318, 324, 337–39, 343, 349, 360–61. See also wazīr Huku-kuri-koi Kamkuli, 337–38
Huku-kuri-koi Yāsī, 339, 343, 349 hunter guilds, 21, 63, 65–81, 84, 91, 94, 97, 100, 138. See also donso karamoko; donson ton; simbon ḥurma (sacred protection), 229, 234, 317–19, 324, 335, 356, 362
'Ibāḍī, 25–28, 33, 157–58, 204, 217. See also Kharājī
Ibn Amir Hájib, 107, 119, 159
Ibn Baṭṭūṭa: as eyewitness in West Africa, 19; and lodging in "white" quarter, 155; in Mali, 64, 115, 120–21, 125, 129, 135–42, 144–51, 155–58; and Mema, 120; and Mombasa, 162–64; and slaving in Bornu, 43
Ibn al-Dawādārī, 106–7, 113, 117–19, 146
Ibn al-Faqīh, 23
Ibn Farhūn, 171. See also al-Dībāj al-mudhahhab fi a’yan ‘ulamā’ al-madhhab Ibn Hajar, 113, 117–20, 123, 145
Ibn Hawqal, 23, 32–33, 46
Ibn al-Jawzī, 28, 32–33, 46. See also Kitāb al-mudhish
Ibn Kathīr, 100, 104–7, 113, 116, 127
Ibn al-Mukhtār, 92, 171, 175–76, 261, 347. See also Ta’rikh al-fattāsh Ibn Qutayba, 28–29, 48. See also Kitāb al-maʿārif; Wahb b. Munabbih Ibn Sa’īd, 28, 44–45, 68, 102
Ibn al-Shaykh al-Laban, 105
Ibrāhīm b. ("son of") Abī Bakr b. al-Qādī al-Hājjī (faqīh), 195–96, 198
Ibrāhīm al-Maqdīsī (Shāfi‘ī scholar), 290
Īd al-Aḍḥā (honoring Ibrāhīm’s willingness to sacrifice Ismā‘īl, and marking end of the hajj), 141, 158, 293, 310
Īd al-Fīr (celebration of Ramadan’s end), 141, 158, 201, 299, 328 al-Idrisi, 21, 27, 37–40, 44–45, 50, 53, 67, 71, 103 Ifrīqiya (Ifrīqiya), 23, 29, 45, 112, 135, 147 iḥāza (pl. iḥāzāt, license to teach), 285–86, 291 ijmā’ (scholarly consensus), 271 ijtiḥād (juristic reasoning), 351
Imām Abū ‘Abd Allāh Anda ag-Muḥāmmad (of Sankore mosque), 296
Imām Aḥmad (of Jingereber mosque, father of Nānā Bēr), 281–82
Imām Aḥmad b. ("son of") Imām Śiddiq b. Muḥāmmad Tagālī (of Jingereber mosque), 282
Imām al-faqīh Gidado al-Fulānī (of Jingereber mosque), 282
Imām Kātib Mūsā (of Jingereber mosque, faqīh of Mali), 156, 214, 281
Imām Sayyid ‘Alī al-Jazūlī (of Jingereber mosque), 282
Imām Sayyid al-faqīh Ibrāhīm al-Zalafī (of Jingereber mosque), 281, 286
Imām al-faqīh Mansūr al-Fazzānī (of Jingereber mosque), 281, 286
Imām Śiddiq b. ("son of") Muḥammad Tagālī (of Jingereber mosque), 259, 282
Imām Śiddiq b. ("son of") Muhammad Tagālī (of Jingereber mosque), 281, 286
Imām Śiddiq b. ("son of") Muhammad Tagālī (of Jingereber mosque), 281, 286
Imām Sayyid al-faqīh Ibrāhīm al-Zalafī (of Jingereber mosque), 281
Inari Konte, 113, 126, 162, 339–40
Incarnations of the Prophet
Indāsan-koi (presumably leader of Tuareg community near Timbuktu), 338
India, 11–13
Indian Ocean, 55, 103, 111
Inland Delta (Niger), 137, 186–87, 212, 237, 258–60, 263, 273 iron: and Djallonkés, 79, 82; and early West African production, 16; and Iron Age, 13–16; and Wagadu, 31. See also numu; smiths Irya (region), 341
'Īsā b. Mazīd, 33
Islam: in Awdaghust, 33; and female spirituality, 295–98; in Ghana, 34–35, 42–44; and Islamic sciences, 280–98; as linked to Malian statecraft, 154–58; and reformist activity, 19–20, 24–27, 33, 36–41, 44, 245; and slavery, 8
Ismā‘īl b. (“son of”) Maḥmūd Ka’ṭi (qāḍī of Tendirma), 176, 262 isnād (pl. asānīd), 285–90. See also silsila al-Iṣṭakhrī, 28, 46, 50
Īwālātan. See Walata/Biru
Iyad ag Ghali, 369–72
Jabate-Gberela, 65, 68. See also griots; jeli
Jakanke, 157, 301, 322
Jalāl al-Dīn ‘Abd al-Raḥmān b. (“son of”) Abī Bakr ‘al-Suyūṭī (noted Egyptian scholar), 204, 206, 235, 241, 277, 286 jamana (townships), 87. See also kafu al-Jāmi’ as-saghīr (of al-Suyūṭī), 204 “Jangaja,” (name of a planation), 341, 346. See also plantation Jango Mūsā Sagansāru (servant of Askia Dāwūd), 344–51, 353–54
Jannissaries, 324
janjon (highest praise song), 64, 83 jāriya (enslaved female, pl. jawārī/jawārīn), 43, 160–61, 300, 359. See also slavery Jata (niece of Yānū, of Anganda and Bu-dara), 298–99, 302
Jāṭil (or Konkodugu Kamissa, Mansā Su-laymān’s first cousin and pretender), 149–51 jazīrat al-tibr (“island of gold”), 39 Jedeba, 79
jeli (pl. jeliw, griots), 61–66, 92, 139, 228. See also oral sources jeli ngaraw (master griots), 65–66. See also griots Jenne: and Mali, 125, 127, 136–38, 325; as described by Leo Africanus, 255–56; as part of Songhay, 242; population estimate of, 220; as recognized by the Genoese and Portuguese, 152–54; and relation to Jenne-jeno, 18; and relations with Gao under the Askias, 263–76, 329, 351–53; and al-Sa’dī, 171–72; as source of foodstuffs for Timbuktu, 17; and “Sudanese” scholars, 213–15, 279; and Sunni ‘Alī, 187–88, 205; and support of Sunni Abū Bakr Dā’u/Bāru, 225
Jenne’s Great Mosque, 188, 274–76
Jenne-jenō (city’s political leader), 129, 136, 188, 208, 222, 249–51, 265, 275, 297
Jenne-koi Wayb集中在, 265
Jenne-mondio (tax collector), 256, 265, 338
Jenne-mondio al-Amin, 338
Jenne-mondio Bukarna, 265
jēsērē (pl. geseru, griots), 228, 250, 259–60 Jews, 44, 56, 177, 226, 260, 262, 321 jihād, 19, 44, 107, 163, 174, 229–30, 236, 242, 260, 325, 369 Jinjo (town), 191, 213, 223, 259, 282, 319, 366 jinn (disembodied spirits of fire), 70, 77, 81, 84, 203, 226–29, 234, 341 jins (“race”), 52
Jolofmansa, 85
jomba (royal slaves), 87, 93, 95, 332. See also jon; slavery jon (slaves), 88, 140. See also jomba; slavery
Jufra, 7, 22, 123
Jula, 32, 38, 79, 142–44, 154, 157–58, 162, 165, 181, 212–13, 262. See also Maraka; Wangāra/Wankara jullab (slave traders), 43

Kabara-farma ’Alū, 347, 349, 359–60, 367

Kabora (or Kābara), 126, 135, 156–58, 213–14, 259, 294

Kabu, 85

kafi (plague), 327, 332, 353

kafu (townships), 86–87, 162. See also jamana

kāhiya (lieutenant, pl. kawāhin), 363–64

Kāhiya Bā-Ḥasan Firīr “the Former Infi del” (al-’iljī), 364

kakaki (large trumpets), 237

Kala (province), 127, 130, 137, 222–23, 239, 258, 296, 325, 328, 339, 360, 362–63, 366

Kala-shā’ (governor of Kala province), 130, 137, 325–26, 360–62

Kala-shā’ Bukar, 360, 362

Kala-shā’ Dankulu (former “Lord of the Route”), 325–26

Kalisi-farma (related to gold), 248

Kalisi-farma Sulaymân Kindankaria (or Sulaymân Kundi Kurya), 248, 261–62

Kama-Bolon/Kamabolon/Amambolon, 65, 145

Kamanjan (of Sibi), 77–78, 82, 86, 95–97

Kamaras (Camaras), 76–94, 125

Kamsa Mīman-koi (mother of Kanfāri ‘Uthmān Yawbābo), 301–2, 317, 324

Kan‘ān b. (“son of”) Ḥām, 29, 48–49. See also Hamitic curse; Kūsh b. Ḥām

Kanatu (site for banished or imprisoned royals), 356, 358, 362

Kanem-Bornu, 5, 7, 21, 28–29, 43, 108, 132, 234, 243; as juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6

Kanfāri al-Hādī b. (“son of”) Askia Dâwūd, 356–59, 362

Kanfāri Hammâd (son of Arūy bt. Askia al-hājj Muḥammad and Balma‘a Muḥammad Kiray), 297, 323, 328–29

Kanfāri Kashiya (son of Kanfāri ‘Uthmān Tinfarin), 336

Kanfāri Śâliḥ, 357, 360

Kanfāri ‘Uthmān Tinfarin b. (“son of”) Kanfāri ‘Umar Kumjāgu, 248, 320–22, 327–30, 336; killed by “lone Zughrānī,” 330; and mother Tāti Za’ankoi, 301, 322

Kanfāri ‘Uthmān Yawbābo (son of Askia al-hājj Muḥammad), 310–11, 316–19, 324

Kanfāri Yahyā, 247–48, 259, 308–11, 316

Kanfāri Ya’qūb, 248, 363

Kangaba, 65–66, 73, 86, 96, 108

Kangaga Island (site for banished or imprisoned royals), 248, 321, 327–28, 336

Kaniaga, 67, 73, 95, 131, 176, 212, 223, 228, 240–45, 255, 310, 341, 366. See also Diara; Futa Kingui

Kaniaga-faran (possibly “sultan of Diara”), 242

Kankigne, Battle of, 83–84

Kankigne, Battle of, 83–84

Kanko (place or office), 190

Kanta, 190, 210, 239, 325–26. See also Kebbi

Kanta Kuta (ruler of Leka), 243, 248, 336

Kante, 68, 81, 89, 90, 177

Kano, 7, 95, 206, 223, 243, 293, 318, 366; as juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6

Kano Chronicle, 243

Kantora, 85, 153

Kanuri, 28. See also Zaghāwa/Zaghawā

Kara/Kala (province), 258, 263

For general queries, contact webmaster@press.princeton.edu
Karai/Kala (possibly Kura)-koi (possibly different office from Kala-shā'), 222, 251, 258
Karai/Kala (possibly Kura)-koi Bukar (father of Askia al-hājj Muḥammad's mother Kasay), 258
Karai Gurma (right bank of Niger), 341
Karai Hauṣ (left bank of Niger), 341
Karakoro River, 15–16, 95, 223 karāmāt (miracles), 290–91, 293–94 karamoko (religious title), 259
Karta, 85–86, 240
Kasay (or Kāsay, mother of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad), 198–99, 207, 226–29, 258, 296
Kāssa bt. ("daughter of") Askia Dāwūd, 297–98
Kawar, 7, 22, 28
Kawkaw, 17, 19, 21, 23. See also Gao-Kukiya Kayamgha (Kayama'a), 32, 41, 174, 176. See also Ghana; Wagadu al-Kayd b. ("son of") Hamza al-Sanāwī (leader of Timbuktu revolt against Gao), 362 Kebbi, 190, 223, 238–39, 242–43, 305, 326, 366. See also Kanta
Keita (royal clan), 65, 69–70, 73, 78, 87–91, 149–51, 157, 184, 212, 239
Kel Tamaseq: and Gao, 17, 185, 220, 227, 233, 265. See also Berber; Tuareg Kelimbine River, 15, 67, 73
Keyla, 65–66
khādam (pl. khadam) ("servant, captive"), 46–47, 160–61, 321, 344. See also slavery khādam maqtū' ("eunuch slave"), 21, 246. See also eunuchs; slavery khādim (female slaves), 160, 344, 359 khadim (male slave), 273, 344, 349, 352, 359 Khālid b. ("son of") ʿAbd Allāh b. Abī Bakr al-Azhari (noted Egyptian grammarian), 206 khaliṣa ("successor"), 235, 245, 328 Khaliṣa (a successor to Ṣunjata), 96–97, 111
kharāj (taxation), 254–56, 353, 364. See also taxation Khariji, 157; as applied to Sunni ʿĀlī, 204–5, 209, 217, 241, 252; as applied to Tengela, 241–42 khāfīb (Friday mosque preacher), 139, 149, 214, 224, 231, 253, 261, 275, 287, 298, 335, 346
Khājiḍ Ahmad Turfu (or Ahmad Sunkumū of Jenne), 275
Khājiḍ ʿUmar, 224, 231, 253, 261 khawāṣṣ (inner circle), 326 khuddām ("servants, vassals"), 32, 211. See also slavery Khurasan, 28
khuiṣa (sermon usually delivered at Friday mosque, other special occasions), 27, 39–40, 117, 146–48, 150, 281 al-Khuwārizmī, 21–22, 31. See also Surat al-ard Kibiru bt. ("daughter of") Askia Dāwūd (sister of Askia Ismā'īl and wife of Maghsharan-koi Akbaran Kasu), 318
Kidal (town), 369
Kīfīyat al-muḥtāj li-maʿrifat man laysa fī l-dībāj, 171–72. See also ʿAlī, 204–5, 209, 217, 241, 252; as applied to Tengela, 241–42
Kiyusu (area), 341
Koba (buffalo woman), 71–76. See also Do-Kamissa; Sogolon Kedju Kokirī-koi (a Kala sultan on western border of Dia/Diagha), 137
Koli Tengela, 240–41
Kolima, 15
kōba (society of smiths), 91
Kondolon Ni Sané, 70 Kong, 96
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Page Dimensions: 486.0x711.0</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Korey-farma (possibly related to Arabo-Berbers in Timbuktu), 335–36, 338, 356</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kotokoli: as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Koulikoro, 67, 73, 84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Koyra-bandamondo (supervisor outside Timbuktu), 265–67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Koulikoro, 67, 73, 84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurc koro (“ancient speech”), 65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kuma-koi (leader of Gao’s “harbor people”), 320–21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kumbi Saleh, 7, 22, 31–41, 38, 41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kunta shaykhs, 217, 294</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kunya (honorific title), 290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kuray-farma (responsibilities related to Tuareg and Arabo-Berbers), 248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurmin-fāri. See kanfāri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurtey (group), 211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurukan Fugan, 86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurwā (unidentified group): as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kurzu (pestilence), 334</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kūsh b. (“son of”) Ḥām, 31, 48. See also Kanān b. Ḥām</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kusuy/Kotsos-Muslim (first to convert among the Zuwā/Zu’a/Juwā/Jā/Diā/Zā/Diua dynasty), 24–25, 27, 180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kutulu-farma (unknown responsibilities), 190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kutulu-farma ‘Umar Kumnāgu, 190, 206. See also Kanfāri ‘Umar Kumnāgu</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Labbī b. (“son of”) Wārjābī b. Rābīs, 37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake Chad, 18, 20, 22, 28–29, 45, 95, 223, 238, 306, 340, 366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake Debo, 95, 126, 129, 185, 191, 213, 222–23, 239, 293, 298, 341–42, 366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake Faguibine, 191</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake Koratu, 347</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lakes Region-Niger Bend, 17–18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Lamlam,” 44–57, 67, 304. See also “Damdam”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamtuna: Berber branch, 26, 37, 127; mountains, 37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>al-Laqānī brothers, 290–92. See also Nāsīr al-Din Muḥammad b. Ḥāsan al-Laqānī; Shams al-Din Muḥammad b. Ḥāsan al-Laqānī</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>latifundia, 6, 161, 372</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lekaa (town), 243, 248, 326, 336</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leo Africanus (al-Ḥasan b. Muḥammad al-Wazzān al-Zayyātī), 171, 243, 249–54, 279, 329, 335–36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libya, 369–72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Lion King, 370–71. See also Sunjata</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>literacy: as innovation as historical tool, 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>livestock, 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>locusts, 148, 362</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>logic, 284, 292</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lulu (town), 190, 210, 223, 238, 366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ma’a (leader of “Dum”), 339</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ma’aduku (“place of the ruler” at Kabara, near Timbuktu), 124, 249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mābī (artisans), 338. See also caste</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mādū (father of Sunnī ‘Alī), 184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>madhhab. See Maliki madhhab; Shāfi‘ī madhhab</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>madrasa, 284–85. See also majlis; maktab; Qur’ānic schools</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Magha/Manga Diabe, 32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Magha/Ma’ Kanti Faran (of Mali), 337</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maghanon Fatta/Frako Maghan Keingu (father of Sunjata), 70–81, 91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>al-Maghili. See Muḥammad b. ‘Abd al-Karim al-Maghili</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>al-Maghrib (North Africa), 3–4; and Almoravids, 25; and bilād as-sūdān, 20, 30, 371; and commerce with West Africa, 23, 44; and introduction of camels, 17; and pivot under Sulaymān, 164–65; and wider participation in Mediterranean, 354; and Zenata Imazighen, 145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maghsharan Tuareg. See Tuareg</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maghsharan-koi (head of Kel Tamasheq in Timbuktu), 265, 338</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maghsharan-koi Akbaran Kasu, 318</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maghsharan-koi al-hājī Mahmūd Bēr, 338</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX

Maghsharan-koi Tibt ag-Sid, 362–63
Maḥmūd (brother of Sita bt. Anda ag-Muḥammad the Elder), 195, 217
Maḥmūd Baghayughu (leading Jenne scholar), 273–76, 329–30
Maḥmūd Yāza (khādīm or servant) of Askia Isḥāq Bēr b. Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad, 273 Mai Dunama Dubbalemi, 28, 234 majlis, 115, 284–85, 296. See also madrasa; maktab; Qur’ānic schools Makhlūf b. ‘Alī b. ("son of") Ṣāliḥ al-Balbālī, 292–93, 304–6 maks (pl. mukūs, non-shari’a taxation), 244, 268–76. See also taxation maktab (Qur’ānic school), 284. See also madrasa; majlis; Qur’ānic schools maktūb ("that which is written"), 73
Malal, 67
Malfante, Antonio, 151–52
Mali: and Askia Dāwūd, 321, 337; capital and urban areas of, 128–29, 134–38; and conflict with Songhay, 236–45, 251, 255, 270; contemporary, 17, 30, 369–72; decline of, 6; earthen ablution in, 35; imperial administration of, 128–34; imperial dimensions of, 5–6, 41, 125–27, 371; as juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6; and location of “land of Sangara-zāma’a,” 327; provinces in, 127–28; as recognized by the Genoese and Portuguese, 152–54; royal court of, 138–43
Mali-koi (mansā of Mali), 109, 114, 129–30, 136, 269
malik (pl. mulūk): and epigraphic series (second) in Gao, 274n4; and Gao rulers, 25, 27; and Mali rulers, 127 al-Malik al-Nāṣir Muḥammad b. ("son of") Qalāwūn (Mamluk ruler), 99, 114–16, 145–46
malika (pl. malikāt), officials in Gao, 27
Malika Bikun Kābi (queen of Ṣāhīja Nono), 298–99
Mālikī madhhab (a school of law), 116, 121, 145, 155, 284, 290
Mamadi Kani, 70, 91
mamadugu (administrative unit), 87
Mamar (oral tradition of), 226–27
Mamar hamey (children of Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad), 145, 150 mamlūk (term for slave), 139, 261, 307 al-Ma’mūn (first cousin of Qāḍī Ḥabīb and friend of Sunni’Ali), 196–97
Mande: as component of Songhay people, 22; in early Mali, 61–91; and influence on Songhay, 169–70; smiths among, 89; speakers of, 38, 220
Manden (Old Mali), 65–91, 96–99, 371
Manden Bukari/Manding Bori/Abubakar I (half-brother of Sunjata), 78, 82, 98, 100, 104–5, 149
Maninka/Mandinka, 65, 68–70, 79, 81, 87, 94, 97, 107
mansā, evolution in meaning, 71, 86–87, 128
Mansā Kara Kamara (ruler of Niani), 82, 85, 94, 125
Mansā Maghā (successor to Mansā Mūsā), 145, 150
Mansā Maghā (or Kita Tenin Maghan, successor to Fadima Mūsā), 150–51
Mansā Muḥammad b. Qū, 3–5, 151
Mansā Mūsā: and Catalan Atlas, 159; and Gao, 123–24, 181–82; gold transported by, 106–9; and Inari Konte, 113, 126, 162, 339–40; indigenization project of, 146, 212–13, 218, 220, 232; and Jinger-eber mosque, 124–25, 281; and Mali’s purported transatlantic voyage, 3–5; marital violations of, 201; matricide of, 109–11, 230; Pilgrimage of, 3–5, 104–25, 180, 371; similarities with Sākūra, 98–104, 110, 123, 143, 182; and Timbuktu, 124–25, 281; as youth, 5
Mansā Sama (of Kangaba), 65
Mansā Sulaymān, 1; and “holy books,” 65, 145; and Ibn Baṭṭūṭa, 64, 105, 147–48; imperial organization under, 126; and Walata/Biru, 125
mansaya (rulership), 71–72, 93–98
Mansur/Mansura (village outside Gao), 318, 320, 326 al-Maqqarī, 40
al-Maqrīzī, 105–6, 113–18, 123–24, 132
Maqzāra. See Fulbe
Maraka, 157, 213. See also Jula; Wangāra/Wankara
Mārī Jāṭa, 65, 69, 88, 94. See also Sunjata Mārī Jāṭa b. (“son of”) Mansā Maghā (successor to Qāsā b. Sulaymān), 150–51
Marīam Dābo (mother of Askia Ismā’īl), 237, 300
Marinids, 104, 112, 140, 145–50
Marwiyyūn, 28, 45
Masaren, 80. See also Kisi mashewar (meeting place of Malian Grand Council), 138–42, 149
Masina-mondio, 256
Masire Anda ag-Muḥammad, 290
Masire Anda ‘Umar (faqīh), 215, 21, 23, 52
Masūfa (branch of Ṣanhāja), 26, 37, 113, 174, 218, 233
matrilineal inheritance, 94, 253, 296, 301 Mauritania, 17, 26, 30–31, 36, 67, 127, 144, 152, 188, 338 mawālī (pl. mawālī, clients), 98, 104, 122
Mawlay/Mawlaya/Mawla Abū ‘l-Abbas Ahmad “the Great” (or Ahmad al-Araj, Wattasid Moroccan ruler), 242–43, 331, 353
Mawlay/Mawlaya/Mawla Ahmad/al-Manṣūr (“Ahmad the Golden”), 353, 358, 364–65
Mawlay/Mawlaya/Mawlā al-Shaykh al-Kabir al-Sharif al-Draawi al-Tagmadert, 352–53
Mayans, 12
Mecca, 7, 22, 26, 33, 36, 70, 110, 117–19, 122–24, 198–99, 205, 232–38, 247, 251, 260, 328
Meditarranean, 17, 102, 142
Mema: early settlements in, 13–18; and Ibn Batūṭa, 120; as Malian province, 87, 120–21, 126–31; as Songhay province, 184, 223, 302, 366; and Sunjata, 78–82, 87, 94–95; “Tichit” people settlement in, 31
Menaka (town), 369
Middle East. See central Islamic lands
Middle Niger: early settlements in, 13–18, 31, 67, 370; and Gao, 21; horses in, 82; and Lakes Region-Niger Bend, 17–18; and location of plantations, 341–42; and Moroccan invasion, 364; as part of imperial Mali, 125; in relation to world history, 11–13; under Songhay domination, 151, 169, 222, 259, 308. See also Niger buckle miḥmandār (official charged with arranging meetings with Mamluk sultan), 116–19 military: under Askia Dāwūd, 349; under Askia al-ḥājj Muḥammad, 251–52, 307–8; and civil war, 360–63; in Ghana, 35–36; and Moroccan invasion, 364; in Mali, 131–32; under Sunnī ‘Alī, 208–210 millet, 16, 293
Mindi Jam, 299
Mi’rāj al-ṣu’ūd, 51–52, 171, 304–6. See also Ahmad Bābā Miriyyūn, 28, 45
Misakul Allāh (head manager and servant of Askia Dāwūd), 340–51, 353–54
Miṣr. See Egypt
Modibo Muḥammad al-Kāborī, 156, 214–17, 259, 283–88, 293–95; a wali, 288
Modibo Wāra (leader), 188
Mokhtar Belmokhtar, 369–72
Mombasa, 162–64
mondio (tax collector), 129, 208, 256
Mongols, 2–3, 112–13
Moors, 54, 86, 152, 363. See also Berbers; Surakas; Tuareg mōri (religious title), 259, 287–88, 320
Mōri Bukan b. (“son of”) Ṣāliḥ “the Son-inke,” 262
Mōri Hawgāru, 212–14, 233, 259–61, 287–89, 298, 302
INDEX

Mōri Jayba, 199, 212, 233, 260–61, 302
Mōri Ma’mak (son of) Mōri Ma’mak al-faqīh Mōri Hawgāru, 287
Mōri Ṭumān (son of Askia al-hājj Muhammad), 262
Mōri al-Ṣadīq, 199, 212, 302, 233, 260
Mōri/Alfa Ṣāliḥ Diawara (faqīh and sayyid and wali), 202, 229–36, 260, 277, 286–88, 308
Mōri ‘Uthmān (son of Askia al-hājj Muhammad), 262
Moroccan occupation (of Songhay), 171–72, 175–76, 192, 250, 259, 294, 303, 355, 362–68
Mossi, 124, 185, 189–93, 197, 206, 218, 236–37, 242–43, 255, 293, 333–38, 348; as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Mossi-koi Komdāo, 190
Mount Arafat, 198, 348
Movement for Unity and Jihad in West Africa (Mouvement pour l’unicité et le jihad en Afrique de l’Ouest, or Mujao), 369 mu’adhdhin (summoner to prayer), 70, 329, 346, 351–52 mu'allim (teacher), 280, 287
Muammar al-Qadhafi, 369
Mudawanna (of Saḥnūn), 284, 286, 291, 295–96
Mudrik b. Fqūṣ (faqīh), 104–5, 110 muftī (unclear role in medieval West African context, as qāḍī adjudicated matters), 217, 357
Mufti Ahmad Mu’yā, 357
Mughals, 112
mughāni (griot), 317, 328. See also griots; jeli; oral sources al-Muhallabi, 23, 25, 29, 33, 246, 307
Muhammad al-Amin b. (son of”) Qāḍī Muhammad b. Qāḍī Mahmūd b. ‘Umar b. Muhammad Aqīt, 272, 296
Muhammad Aqīt (progenitor of Aqīt family): hatred of Fulbe, 189, 198, 215; settlement in Timbuktu, 215–18
Muhammad b. (son of”) ‘Alī Muhammad al-Tāzakhī, 285 Muhammad b. (son of”) Askia al-Hājj (nephew of Askia Ishāq b. Askia Dāwūd), 362–63
Muhammad Bello (leader of Sokoto Caliphate), 270–71, 294
Muhammad Koi-je (son of Kanfāri Ya‘qūb b. Askia al-hājj Muhammad), 363
Muhammad Qū, 100–104, 111
Muhammad San b. (son of”) al-faqīh al-Mukhtār, 250
Muhammad Sorko-ije (son of Askia Dāwūd and “a Sorko woman”), 339
Muhammad w. (offspring/ descendant of”) Mawri (soldier who killed “Dum” leader Ma’a), 339 Muhanna b. (son of”) ‘Abd al-Bāqī al-‘Ujrumī (guide on Pilgrimage), 118 Mukāshafa (“clairvoyance”), 290–91
al-Mukhtār b. (son of”) ‘Umar (faqīh), 297 Mukhtaṣar (of Khalīl b. Ishāq al-Jundī), 284–86, 292, 295
Muli (territory), 126, 190
Munkar and Nakir (angels who examine the faith of the dead in the tomb), 290
Munsu 'Alū Maida’a (nephew of female leader Yānū), 299
Mugaddima, 41, 50. See also Ibn Khaldūn Muridiyya (brotherhood), 294. See also Sufism; ḫarīqa Mūsā Tunkara (of Mema), 79–82, 94, 130
mushrif (official at Walata/Biru), 140–41, 162 musketeers (rumā‘), 358, 363–67
Muwaṭṭa’ (of Mālik b. (“son of”) Anas), 284, 286, 296

nahwa (grammar), 284
nā‘ib (“deputy”), 125
Namanje (mother of Manden Bukari), 78
Nānā Bēr Tūre (great-grandmother of al-Sa’dī), 189
Nānā Ḥafṣa bt. (“daughter of”) al-Ḥājī Āḥmad b. ’Umar, 272, 296
Nānā Kankan (mother or grandmother of Mansā Mūsā), 109–11, 149, 230
Nānā Tinti (daughter of Abī Bakr al-Qādī al-Ḥājī), 198–99, 207, 293, 296
Nāra (daughter of Malian ruler and wife of Askia Dāwūd), 338
Nāṣir al-Dīn, 240–41
Nāṣir al-Dīn Muḥammad b. (“son of”) Ḥasan al-Laqānī (Maliki scholar), 290–92 Nāsirī in Mossi territory), 189, 191
Nasrids, 112

National Movement for the Liberation of Azawad (Mouvement national de Liberation de l’Azawad, or MNLA), 369–70
Nayl al-ibtihāj bi-taṭrīz al-dībāj, 171, 175. See also Āḥmad Bābā; Kifāyat al-muḥtāj li-ma’rifat man laysa fī ‘l-dībāj n’gana (“man of action”), 86
n’gara (“man of words”), 86
Niamey, 211, 341
Niani, 7, 73–77, 79, 82, 85, 94, 96, 135
Nībkat Sunnî (“the sunnî’s hillock”), 187
Nigeria, 345

Niuma Demba, 82–83, 85
Niumi, 71–72, 85
Njajane Njaye (head of Jolof confederation), 321
Nora (forest of), 88
North Africa. See al-Maghrib
Nouvelle historique, 24, 171, 181–84, 207, 222
Nṣla, 26
Nuba, 29, 48, 50, 52–53
Nūḥ, 357
numu (Mande smiths), 81. See also iron; smiths Nupe, 238, 337
nwana (lead warrior), 87
*nyna-*ie (children of same mother), 301 nyama (life force), 76, 84
nyamakala (castes), 88
Nzinga (of Angola), 298–99

Old Testament, 49, 207
Operation Serval, 370
oral sources: and beginning of Askia dynasty, 226–30; and birth of Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 321; and Malian succession, 93–100, 150; and Mande in Gambia, 126; as method, 6; and recordkeeping, 142, 154; and Songhay, 170, 172–73; and Sunjata epic, 61–91; and Wagadu, 32, 38. See also ḫelī Ottomans, 47, 113, 235, 303, 328, 353
Ouologuem, Yambo, 370–71. See also Le Devoir de Violence

Oyo Ille, 239, 305
Pacheco Pereira, Duarte, 153–54
Palestinians, 54
Pasha Jawdar (or Jawdār or Jūdār), 363–65
Pasha Maḥmūd b. (“son of”) Zarqūn, 174–75, 206, 365 patriliny of Islam, 56–57, 94, 253–54 Pilgrimage. See ḫajj
pirogues (boats), 83, 103, 188. See also Somone; Sorko; watercraft plantation, 6, 161, 340–51, 353–54, 367, 372. See also agriculture; fiefs; harth Portuguese, 53, 103, 112, 126, 151–54, 169, 218, 322, 333, 358 pottery, 16, 23
Pulaar, 37, 65, 68, 189, 220, 338. See also Fulbe; Hal Pulaaren “puppet” Askias, 365 pyramids: and Mansā Mūsā, 114 qāḍī (judge), 140, 158, 176, 215, 283, 311, 320, 357; alleged independence (in Timbuktu) from Gao, 262–73
Qāḍī Abū al-Abbas Sīdī, 201
Qāḍī “Hind” Alfa, 346
Qāḍī Maḥmūd Niandobogho, 233
Qāḍī Muḥammad b. ("son of") Maḥmūd b. 'Umar b. Muḥammad Aqīt (of Timbuktu), 273, 290–91, 332
Qāḍī (and khātib) Muḥammad Diakite (of Gao), 346
Qāḍī ‘Umar (of Yindubughu/Yindubu’u village), 274, 293
Qāḍī ‘Umar b. ("son of") al-faqīḥ Maḥmūd (uncle of Ahmad Bābā), 296 Qadiriyya (brotherhood), 294. See also Sufism; ṣarīqa al-Qāda in Islamic North Africa (al-Qa’ida au Maghreb islamique, or AQMI), 369–72
qā’id (military general, pl. quwwād), 36
Qā’id ‘Alī b. ("son of") al-Muṣṭafā “the Former Infidel” (al-’iljī), 363–64
Qā’id ‘Ammār the Eunuch (al-fatā) “the Former Infidel” (al-’iljī), 363–64
Qāma Qatiya, 239–40, 251 al-Qāmūs al-muṭ (of al-Fayrūzābādī), 347 Qandā (ruler of Gao), 25
al-Qarāfa ‘l-Kubrā (in Cairo), 114–15, 155, 289 Qāsā (chief wife of Mansā Sulaymān), 1, 144, 147–51, 161, 164, 199 al-Qaywaran (al-Qaywarān), 7, 22, 26, 36
Qū (son or grandson of Sunjata), 100–101, 110–11, 151 qualified reciprocity (reconsideration of slavery), 334, 347–51 qubba (executive office of the mansā), 138–42 quilted armor, 337. See also coat of mail Qur'ānic schools, 280, 284–88. See also madrasa; majlis; maktab Quraysh, 39, 122
quṭb al-kāmil (human “perfected pole” or “spiritual axis”), 186, 217, 290 “race,” 28–30, 32, 43–57, 162–64, 174, 281. See also bayādān; jins; sūdān rain, 14, 22, 32, 67, 121, 234–35, 294, 329, 364 Ramaḏān, 141, 160, 188–89, 201, 287, 292–93, 299, 328, 331 raqiq (term for slave), 44, 47. See also slavery
INDEX [499]

Ra's al-Mā' (western edge of Lake Faguibine), 95, 191, 210, 215, 223, 366
Red Sea, 142
reform Islam. See Islam Replies of al-Maghīlī to the Questions of Askia al-ḥājj Muhammad, 200–202, 252–56, 262–63. See also Muhammad
b. 'Abd al-Karīm al-Maghīlī rice, 16, 43, 254, 340–51, 360
Risāla (of Ibn Abī Zayd), 245–46, 284, 286, 293, 295–335 al-Sa'dī. See 'Abd al-Raḥmān b. 'Abd Allāh b. 'Imrān al-Sa'dī Ṣaḥīḥ (of al-Bukhārī), 283, 292, 298–301, 331, 340, 349, 358
Ṣaḥīḥ (of Muslim), 283, 292
Ṣaḥīḥ [Jula clan name], 157–58
Sahara, 1, 3, 12–21, 29–30, 42, 46–47, 55, 84, 102, 111, 122, 142, 220, 240, 256, 267, 283, 315, 331, 371
Ṣaḥīḥ (of-Bukhārī), 283, 292
Ṣaḥīḥ (of Muslim), 283, 292
Ṣā'id b. ("son of") Ahmad Šāïd, 53, Sākūra, 98–104, 110, 123, 143, 182
Ṣālaḥ al-Dīn (Saladin), 3, 113
Ṣalum, 86
Sama (or Tabā), 190–91, 328, 330
San (town), 185, 190
san (unspecified elites), 250, 357
Sānā bt. ("daughter of") Fārī-ko (mother of Askia Dāwūd), 300, 335, 339
Sanaa, 31. See also Yemen
Sandaki (Malian wazīr), 151
Sangara (Sankara), 71–79; as Fulbe community, 189
Sanghana, 126
Ṣanḥāja, 33, 36–37, 52, 174, 218, 233, 283–98
Sankarani River, 88, 95, 135, 223, 366
Sanqara-zūma'a (southern regional military commander), 131–32, 327
Sansanding, 222
Sān Salvador, 332
Sān Tomé and Principe, 218, 332
Ṣāriq Jāta (grandfather of Mansā Mūsā), 65, 69. See also Sunjata
Sassuma Berete (first wife of Maghan Kon Fatta), 74–78
Satigi Galajo b. ("son of") Koli Tengela b. Tengela, 241
Say (town), 211, 341
Sayf al-Dīn Ītmish (Mamluk official), 117–18
Sayyid (religious title; also, "master"), 286–87, 342–43
Sayyid Anda-Naḍḍa 'Umar b. ("son of") Ali b. Abi Bakr, 190 Sayyid al-faqīh Ibrāhīm (brother of al-Qāḏī al-Hājj), 195 scholar-entrepreneurs, 217–18 seafaring: West African, 3–5; European, 151–54, 218, 315–16, 332–33
Segu, 65, 68, 127, 185, 190, 242
Senegambia, 126, 151, 240. See also Gambi; Senegal Sereer, 37, 86
Serrakole, 16, 31. See also Soninke servility, 3, 6, 46–47, 55, 84, 88–90, 93, 107, 132, 159–62, 194, 208–11, 218, 227, 252, 301, 307–8, 334, 339, 340–51, 353–54, 367, 372. See also caste; slavery Shā'farma (ruler of town of Sa/Sah), 129, 261, 297, 320, 338
Shā'farma Muḥammad Konāte, 297–98, 338
Shāf‘ī madhhab (a school of law), 116, 155, 163, 290

For general queries, contact webmaster@press.princeton.edu
INDEX

shāhāda, 200, 202, 237
al-Shammākhī, 67
Shams al-Dīn b. ("son of") Tāzmart al-Maghribī, 19–20, 290
Shams al-Dīn Muhammad b. ("son of") Ḥaṣan al-Laqānī (Maliki scholar), 290–92 sharīʿa: in Ghana, 39; and Ibn Khaldūn, 51; in contemporary Mali, 369–70; in Songhay, 214, 266–73, 311
al-Sharīshī, 40, 217
Shaykh Abū ‘Uthmān Saʿīd al-Dukkālī, 108, 120–21, 126, 148, 161, 164
Shaykh ‘Uthmān (faqīh of Ghana), 41, 69, 94, 96
Shehu Amadu Lobbo, 178–79, 184, 210, 234 sherīfians (descendants of the Prophet), 122, 229, 250, 261, 293–94, 346 Shibi (village near Direi), 195–96
shurbubba movement, 240–41
Si hamey (or Sohantye or Sohance, descendants of Sunni ‘Alī), 323, 325
Sibi, 77–78
Sibiridugu, 127, 137, 210
sīdī (religious title), 286–87
Sīdī ‘Abd Allāh b. ("son of") ‘Umar b. Muḥammad Aqīt, 197, 286, 290–93, 304; a wali, 292
Sīdī ‘Abd al-Raḥmān al-Tamīmī, 156, 196, 214–15, 283
Sīdī Muhammad al-Bakrī, 290–93
Sīdī ‘Uryān al-Ra’s ("the Bald-Headed"), 285–86, 293, 302
Sīdī Yahyā mosque, 186, 271, 282–83, 286, 294, 352, 357
Sīdī Yahyā al-Tūdališi, 156, 211, 215–17, 282, 286
Sijilmasa, 7, 22–23, 32–33, 40, 125, 135, 155, 217
Sikasso, 67
Sila, 35, 37–40, 44, 53
Silamakan, 85
Silk and Spice Routes, 112
Silla (Soninke clan), 91, 157, 176, 229, 258, 314
Silman Nārī (brother of ‘Alī Kulun, progenitor of Sunni dynasty), 141, 180 silsila (pl. salāsil), 285–90. See also isnād simbon ("master hunter"), 70–72, 77–78, 84, 97. See also donso karamoko; donson ton; hunter guilds
Simbon/Bamari Taṇgogokelin, 70 Sin, 86
Sīrat al-Dīn b. ("son of") al-Kuwayk (Alexandrian merchant), 114, 120–22
Sisse (Cissé): Mande maraboutic family, 91, 157; ruling clan of Ghana, 32, 68, 79, 89
Sītā bt. ("daughter of") Anda ag-Muḥammad the Elder (mother of Qāḍī Maḥmūd b. ‘Umar b. Muḥammad Aqīt), 195–97, 217, 295
Siwi Arabs: possibly juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6 slavery, 6; under Askia Dāwūd, 338; in Awdaghust, 33; and concubinage, 299–311, 323, 347; and Denyanke dynasty in Futa Toro, 240–42; domestic, 20; in early Gao, 21, 43–44; and end of imperial Songhay, 358–64; and ethnicity, 303–6; and eunuchs, 21, 43, 246, 249, 252, 303, 323–25, 332, 341, 360–63; and free Muslims, 211–12; and Fulbe under Sunni ‘Alī, 211–12; in Ghana, 40, 44; and increase during nadir, 315–33, 372–73; and Lake Chad and Zawila, 28–29; in Mali, 113–14, 138–42, 159–62; and officials, 355–67, 372; as “qualified reciprocity” under Askia Dāwūd, 334, 340–51, 353–54; and race, 43–57; in salt mines, 113; in Songhay military, 211–12, 307–8, 340; and Sūmaoro as “slave of Da,” 89; in Takrur, 37; and women, 44, 84, 121, 124, 149–51, 159–62, 189. See also ‘abīd; caste; concubinage; eunuchs; gulām; jāriya; khādim; khuddām; mamlūk; servility Slavs, 46–47, 51, 53 smiths, 76, 79, 81–82, 88–91, 209–10. See also iron; numu sofas (infantry), 82–84
Sogolon Kedju (mother of Sunjata), 72–91, 98
Sogolon Kolokon (sister of Sunjata), 76, 78, 83, 98
Sokoto Caliphate, 294, 345
Somono, 210, 254. See also fisherfolk; Sorko; watercraft
Son Faga Laye, 100
Son-Jara, 75. See also Sunjata
Sonfontera. See Sunfuntir
Songhay/Songhoi: cosmopolitanism of, 218–20; earthen ablution in, 35; as ethnicity, 220; imperial dimensions of, 220, 242, 310–11; independence of, 179–83, 212; Islam in, 5; as juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6; and Mali, 126 129; military in, 251–52; and nadir, 315–33; political efflorescence of, 5; stakeholders of, 315, 322–29, 334–35, 349, 361, 367; taxation in, 252–56. See also ahl Sughay Songhay-Zarma, 301, 346 sons of vassal kings: in Ghana, 35; in Mali, 134; See also farāriyya sorghum, 16
Sorko, 21–22, 190, 210–11, 226, 252–54, 260–61, 307–8, 339. See also fisherfolk; pirogues; Somono; watercraft spahis (mounted soldiers), 364 Spaniards, 363–67
Stone Age (Late), 15–18
Sufism, 115, 203; in Timbuktu, 284–86, 289, 292–97. See also ṭariqa Ṣughrā (of al-Sanūsī al-Tilimsānī), 292
Suma (in Mali), 337
Sumaba Sisse, 79
Sumaoro/Sumanguru Kante, 68–91, 98, 332
Sunfuntir (Sonfontera), 189, 198
Sunjata: birth and early childhood of, 71–77; and conquest of Susu, 69–70, 81–86; contemporary image of, 370–71; and creation of empire, 86–91; epic of, 61–91; exile of, 77–81; as progenitor of Mansā Muḥammad b. Qū, 3; and servile military, 132 sunna, 67, 174, 271, 279, 290
Sunnī (dynasty), 130; becoming independent, 141, 172, 180–224; slavery in, 334
Sunnī Abū Bakr Dā’u/Bāru, 221–26, 238, 247, 251; jihād against, 229–30; and sisters’ rejection of Askia al-hājj Muḥammad, 226
Sunnī ‘Alī (‘Alī Ber): and birth of Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 321; character and reputation of, 172, 183, 196, 199–207; and concubinage, 302–3; and condemnation by al-Maghīlī, 230; demise of, 205–8, 218, 221, 223, 266; and “Dum,” 339; and fight against Yānu, 298–99; and hatred of Fulbe, 189, 302; and Jenne, 136, 187–89, 249; as “Kharījite,” 204–5, 209, 252; military under, 208–10; military campaigns of, 183–90, 371; and Mossi campaigns, 190–92; and parallels with Sunjata, 88, 183; and relations with Muslim elites, 175, 183, 193–207, 218, 268, 272, 296, 311; religious practices of, 194, and Timbuktu, 124, 185–89, 194–212, 269–70
Sunnī Sulaymān Dāma, 180–84
sunūn (rice sacks), 340–45
Sūq mosque (Timbuktu), 281, 352
“sūra” (contextually a reference to Berbers in southern Mauritania), 338–39
Sura Bantanba, 188, 337, 339, 352. See also Ataram; Hodh
Suradugu, 131, 241. See also Hodh
Surakas, 86. See also Moors; Tuareg
Ṣurat al-arḍ, 31
Surumbali, 85
surya’ (military official), 188
Sus, 45.
Susu: and defeat of Ghana, 41, 67; Malian conquest of, 63, 66, 69; and Mema, 16; and slaving, 67; and war with Sunjata, 81–91
Susu Debe Square, 156
al-Suyūṭī. See Jalāl al-Dīn ‘Abd al-Raḥmān b. Abī Bakr ‘al-Suyūṭī Syria, 43, 100, 113, 127
Tabakli (eunuch), 361
Tabon, 77–79, 82, 90, 128
Tadmekka, 7, 22, 26–27, 38, 123, 125, 151
Taghaza, 7, 22, 34, 95, 113, 125, 135, 152, 161, 223, 242–45, 252, 256, 310, 331–33, 349, 352–53, 358, 364–66
Taghaza-mondio (tax collector), 256, 349, 352
Taghaza-mondio Muḥammad Ikumā, 349, 352
Tagidda (town), 7, 22, 195, 223, 366
Tahdhīb (of al-Barādhi’ī), 284–86
“tailor-alfas,” 287. See also alfa; tindes
Ta’jiti (site), 195
Takedda, 123, 135, 151, 160
Takrur: as province of Mali, 41, 77, 99, 126; along Senegal River, 34, 36–41, 44; as representing imperial Songhay, 358
Tana, 83–84
Tankondibogho. See Tondibi
Taoudeni (town), 358
Tara (village), 326
Taratan-koi, 222
tarīka (estate), 309
Ta’rīkh al-fattāš, 20–21; and Dia/Diagha, 158; and disparity over Askia Ishāq Bēr, 329–30; and divergence over royal women, 340; and fall of Ghana, 41; and fall of Songhay, 366–67; and imperial Mali, 128–130; and Mansā Mūsā, 106, 109–10, 113, 122–25; manuscript C of, 161–62, 177–79, 184, 209–10, 222, 225, 229–34, 247, 254, 260–62, 287, 307, 422n4; and Mori Koyra, 288; objectives of, 171–82; as passage repeated in Ta’rīkh as-sūdān, 221; and period of composition, 178–79; and Pilgrimage of Askia Muhammad, 230–36; and Sunni ’Ali, 183–218; and treatment of Askia Muhammad Bonkana Kirya, 321; and twenty-four tribes, 161–62
Ta’rīkh as-sūdān, 20–21, 24–25, 32; and disparity over Askia Ishāq Bēr, 329–30; and divergence over royal women, 340; and imperial Mali, 126, 128–32, 156–58; and Jenne, 136; and Kasay, 226; and Mansā Mūsā, 106–7, 114, 124–25; and al-nās, 291, 322–25; as new technology of memory, 173–74, 228; objectives of, 171–82; as passage repeated in Ta’rīkh al-fattāš, 221; and Pilgrimage of Askia Muḥammad, 230–36; and restoration of Sankore under Askia al-hājj Muhammad, 224–25; and Sunni ’Ali, 183–218; and treatment of Askia Muḥammad Bonkana Kirya, 321–22
Tariku (“book of the Manden”), 65
jarīqa (brotherhood, pl. ṭuruq), 294–95. See also Qadiriyya; Tijaniyya Tasara/Tusur-mondio (tax collector), 256, 265–67
Tas’hīl al-fatwā’id wa takmīl al-maqāṣid (of Ibn Mālik), 285
Tāti Za’ankoi (“Kanfāri ‘Uthmān Tinfarin”), 321, 322
Tawta Allāh (village), 260 taxation: in Ghana, 36, 39; jizya, 41; in Mali, 108; in Songhay, 252–56, 267–68, 353, 364. See also kharāj; zakāt Tazakht (village), 197, 285, 290–92
Tegdaoust. See Awdaghast
Tengela, 239–42, 251
tibr (raw gold), 39, 106–8. See also gold Tifinagh, written language of Tamasheq, 25, 171
Tijaniyya, 294. See also ṭarīqa
Tila (royal encampment at Kabara), 319
Tillabery (archipelago), 211
Tilza Tanat (or Muḥammad b. ‘Abd al-Rahmān, leader of Agades), 237 Timbuktu: as described by Leo Africanus, 255–56; contemporary, 369–72; early settlement in, 17–18; and erudition, 279–88; and imperial Mali, 124–25; and Kanfāri Muḥammad Bonkana b. Askia Dāwūd, 355–56; and Moroccan occupation, 365–67; in open rebellion against Gao, 361–64; population estimate of, 220; Qur’ānic schools in, 280, 284–85; as recognized by the Genoese and Portuguese, 151–54; and relations with Gao under the Askias, 258–311, 341, 352–53; and relations with Gao under the Sunnis, 229–30; as spiritual center, 278–97; and Sufism, 293–95; and Sunni ‘Ali, 185–86; and sūq, 281, 352; as “University of Sankore,” 281–88; and women as source of spiritual power, 295–97

Timbuktu-koi, 129, 186, 195, 205–8, 224, 264–67, 282, 362–63

Timbuktu-koi al-Mukhtar b. (“son of”) Muḥammad Naḍḍa, 195, 205–6, 224–25

Timbuktu-koi Shaykh Muḥammad Naḍḍa, 186, 282

Timbuktu-koi ‘Umar b. (“son of”) Muḥammad Naḍḍa, 224–25

Timbuktu-mondio (tax collector), 129, 256, 265–67, 362

Timūr Lang, 204–5
tindes (tailoring shops), 287

Tinfini (village in Gurma), 365

Tiraqqa, 26–27

Tiryi (village), 317

Toledo, 177

Tondi-farma (responsible for security of western Gurma region), 206, 249

Tondi-farma Muhammad Ture, 190, 221–24, 249, 251, 256, 260, 262, 268; and conspiracy against Sunni ‘Ali, 205–27, 223, 268; and revolt against Sunni Abū Bakr Dā’u, 221–24, 251. See also Askia al-hājj Muhammad

Tondibi (village), 353, 358; Battle of, 355, 364–65

Tondinke (cliff dwellers): as juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6

Toya (village), 318, 337, 360, 366 trade. See commerce transatlantic slave trade, 1, 240, 332

Traore, 71–73, 78, 89

Tripoli (Tarābulus), 7, 22–23, 26, 28, 99

Tuareg, 3, 24; as Maghsharan, 182, 185–86, 206, 209, 215–18, 227, 265, 270, 318, 331, 335, 338, 362, 371–72; and race, 56–57; See also Kel Tamasheq

tubenan movement, 240–41

Tunni, 318

Tunisia, 112
tunka, 127, 130

Tunka Basī, 35

Tunka Manin, 94

Tunkara (“Your Excellency”), 139–31, 259 tunkoi (military official), 188

Ture (clan), 228–29

Turks, 51, 121–22, 139, 160–61

Tusku (or Tusuku, near Timbuktu), 189, 205

Tuwat, 7, 22, 106–7, 113–14, 123, 151, 177, 277, 282, 304

al-Tuwayjīn (Abū ʿIshāq Ibrāhīm al-Sāḥīlī, Granadian poet), 121–23, 158, 155

“twenty-four tribes,” 161, 184, 209–210, 254

Uli (Wali), 96–97, 155

“Ulimansa,” 153

‘Umar (son of Timbuktu-koi Shaykh Muhammad Naḍḍa), 186–87

Umatullāh bt. (“daughter of”) Askia Dāwūd, 297–98

“Ungaros,” 154. See also Wangāra/Wankara unification (of Gambia, Niger, and Senegal valleys), 123, 142, 165

Upper Niger, 17, 137, 151

Uṣūl (of al-Subkī), 285

Usman dan Fodio, 240, 294

ʿUthmān Sīdī (son of Askia al-hājj Muhammad)

Umatullāh bt. (“daughter of”) Askia Dāwūd, 297–98

“Ungaros,” 154. See also Wangāra/Wankara unification (of Gambia, Niger, and Senegal valleys), 123, 142, 165

Upper Niger, 17, 137, 151

Uṣūl (of al-Subkī), 285

Usman dan Fodio, 240, 294

ʿUthmān Sīdī (son of Askia al-hājj Muhammad), 316, 318

Wa’akore, 212. See also Wangāra/Wankara

Wadan, 7, 22, 28, 152, 331, 358

Wagadu, 31–32, 38, 89, 95, 223, 366. See also Ghana; Kayamagha (Kayama’ā)
INDEX

wago, Soninke aristocracy, 32
wahay-ize (children of concubines), 301 Wahb b. ("son of") Munabbih, 29, 48. See also Ibn Qutayba; Kitāb al-maʿārif waiza (unspecifed office apparently reserved for women), 297–99
Waiza 'Āisha Kara, 297
Waiza Akibunu bt. ("daughter of") Askia Dāwūd, 297, 339
Waiza Bāni, 297–98
Waiza Ḥafṣa bt. ("daughter of") Askia Dāwūd, 297–98, 339
Waiza Ḥafṣa bt. ("daughter of") Askia al-ḥājj Muhammad, 297–98
Waiza Umm Hāni, 297–98
Walo, 151, 179
wanadu ("askia's mouth"), 250, 346, 348
Waṇay-farma ("chief of property"), 248, 254
Waṇay-farma Musāb Yunbul, 261–62
Wangāra/Wankara, 32, 38–39, 154, 157, 176, 212, 258, 262, 300. See also Jula; Maraka Wantaramasa (village), 326
Wanzu-koi, 130
Wargala, 7, 22, 28, 122–23
Wārjābī b. Rābīs, 36–38
Warun-koi, 130
watercraft, 103, 210, 341. See also pirogues; Somono; Sorko Wātī, 96
Wattasids, 331, 353
waṣīr, 116, 150–51, 223, 233. See also huku-kuri-koi Wolof, 31, 37, 65, 85, 128, 153, 179, 220; juridically ineligible for enslavement, 304–6 women: diminution of political power, increase in spiritual power, 71–91, 144, 298; enslaved, 33, 45–57, 84, 121, 124, 159–62, 189, 340–51; and pluralism in Songhay, 299–311; in revolt, 147–151; as rulers in Gambia, 71–72; and spirituality, 295–97
Wuld Kirinfil (royal slave), 364 Wuli, 72, 85
Yahyā b. ("son of") Abī Bakr, Masūfa amīr, 26, 37
Yahyā b. ("son of") Ibrāhīm, 36. See also Almoravids al-yaman, 173. See also Yemen Yānū (of Anganda and Budara), 298–99, 302 al-Yaʿqūbī, 21–25, 28, 31, 33, 49
Yaqūt, 48, "Yara" (town), 212
Yāri Sunku Dīhi (aide to Askia Muhammad Bonkana Kirya), 326
Yāsi Buru-Bēr b. ("son of") Dāwūd, 362
Yāsiboy (Songhay ruler), 173–74, 180
Yatenga, 95, 185, 190–91, 223, 236, 242, 260, 366. See also Mossi
Yāyi Katu Wakāri ("the Wangārī"), 232–33
Yemen, 22, 24, 31–32, 51, 70, 124, 173–74, 261, 348
Yerelinkon, 96–97, 155. See also Uli
Yindubughu (village), 274
Yoruba, 238, 337; juridically eligible for enslavement, 304–6
Yubo-koi (market commissioner), 265–67
Yuna (near Lake Koratu, Mopti region), 347
Yūsuf b. ("son of") Ibrāhīm b. 'Umar al-Īsī (Moroccan scholar), 305–6
Zab (area), 122
Zafun (Diafunu, Zāfūn), 126–27, 131
Zaghāwa/Zaghawa (Zaghāwiyūn), 23, 28–29, 45, 48, 53. See also Kanuri zāhid (ascetic), 291, 357
Zakariyyā al-Anṣārī (Shāfiʿī scholar), 290 zakāt (obligatory alms), 254, 267–68. See also alms; taxation Zamfara, 95, 223, 243, 366
Zanj, 23, 29, 48, 52–53, 163. See also Zanjī Zanjī (pl. Zanjājiyya), in manuscript C of Ṭāʾīrīk al-fattāsh, 210, 254, 260. See also Zanj Zanzan (village), 366; Battle of, 365

For general queries, contact webmaster@press.princeton.edu
Zāra Kabirun-koi (mother of Askia Mūsā), 239, 247, 300–301, 306
Zaria, 7, 95, 223, 243, 298, 366; juridically excluded from enslavement, 304–6
Zarqatabana, 126
Zawila, 7, 22, 28–29
zāwiya (a sacred space usually consisting of a saint’s tomb and surrounding gardens), 155, 240
Zayanids, 112, 353
Zenata (Berbers), 112, 145. See also Ama-zigh; Berbers Zheng He, 111–12
ziyārah, 115. See also Sufism
Zkry, 108–9, 161
Zopoli, 103
Zubanku (town in Gurma), 339
Zughrānī (Diawambe clients of Middle Niger Fulbe), 207, 231, 241, 301, 330, 336, 361
al-Zuhri, 23, 26, 37, 44
Zuwā/Zu’a/Juwā/Diā/Zā/Diu’a dynasty (or zuwā/juwā/jā’), 24, 27, 172–77, 179–82, 256, 323
Zuwā Ber-banda/Juwā-ber-banda, 238