CONTENTS

Introduction: Why Taubes? 1

CHAPTER 1 Yichus: Vienna, 1923–36 9

CHAPTER 2 Coming of Age in Switzerland, 1936–47 29

CHAPTER 3 Intellectual Roots, Grand Themes, 1941–46 52

CHAPTER 4 Occidental Eschatology and Beyond, 1946–47 71

CHAPTER 5 New York and the Jewish Theological Seminary, 1947–49 99

CHAPTER 6 Jerusalem, 1949–52 144

CHAPTER 7 Making It? 1952–56 181

CHAPTER 8 Columbia Years, 1956–66: The Merchant of Ideas and the Invention of Religious Studies 236

CHAPTER 9 Between New York and Berlin, 1961–66 264

CHAPTER 10 Berlin: Impresario of Theory 305

CHAPTER 11 The Apocalyptic Moment 336

CHAPTER 12 Deradicalization and Crisis, 1969–75 355

CHAPTER 14 “Ach, ja, Taubes . . .”: A Character Sketch 445

CHAPTER 15 Schmitt and Political Theology Revisited, 1982–86 453

CHAPTER 16 Final Act, 1986–87 480

[vii]
CHAPTER 17  The Afterlives of Jacob Taubes

Conclusion

Acknowledgments  525
Abbreviations  531
Notes  533
Primary Sources  613
Index  619
INTRODUCTION

Why Taubes?

Scenes from the Life and Afterlife of Jacob Taubes

Vienna, March 1936. The bar mitzvah of Jacob Taubes in the synagogue on the Pazmanitengasse, one of the largest in Vienna, where his father is the rabbi. Jacob reads from the Torah and the Haftorah (the Pentateuch and the Prophets). His father addresses him, first in German and then in a Hebrew richly inflected with Biblical and Talmudic allusions. He reminds Jacob that he is the scion of a family of great distinction, going back centuries, with ancestors who include great masters of rabbinic law and Hasidic rebbes.

Sankt Gallen, Switzerland, December 1944. The radically anti-Zionist, ultra-Orthodox Rebbe of Satmar arrives from Nazi-occupied Hungary on a train carrying a handful of Jews, the beneficiary of negotiations between a Zionist official and the Nazis. As the Rebbe speaks none of Switzerland’s official languages, young Jacob Taubes acts as his assistant.

New York, January 1949. Having recently received his rabbinic ordination and doctorate of philosophy in Zurich, Jacob is now being groomed at the Jewish Theological Seminary to become a major Jewish theologian. The seminary pays the philosopher Leo Strauss to tutor Jacob on the great medieval Jewish thinker Moses Maimonides. Jacob, in turn, runs a seminar on Maimonides attended by a small group of up-and-coming young Jewish intellectuals—including Daniel Bell, Nathan Glazer, Gertrude Himmelfarb, and Irving Kristol—who will go on to become major figures in American academic and public life. He conveys to them, among other insights, Strauss’s interpretation of the political functions of religion. That summer, they attend Jacob’s wedding to Susan Feldmann.
Berlin, June 1967. The speakers’ platform of the Auditorium Maximum of the Free University in Berlin where, having taught at Harvard, Princeton, and Columbia universities, Jacob is now on the faculty. Three thousand students crowd into the auditorium to hear Jacob’s friend, Herbert Marcuse, lecture on “The End of Utopia.” There on the platform with Marcuse is the star of the student left, Rudi Dutschke, and its leading faculty mentor, Jacob Taubes.

Plettenberg, September 1978. The small Rhineland town, home to Carl Schmitt, to which Taubes has traveled to meet face to face with the aged political theorist. Once one of the most prominent academics in Germany, Schmitt has come to be vilified among democrats and liberals for his active support of the Hitler regime. But Taubes has long been fascinated with him. Among the topics Schmitt and Taubes discuss is the proper interpretation of the passages related to the Jews in Paul’s Epistle to the Romans.

Jerusalem, August 1981. The podium of the World Congress of Jewish Studies at the Hebrew University. Jacob Taubes draws a large crowd of scholars of Judaica who come to hear his critique of Gershom Scholem, the great scholar of Jewish mysticism and messianism, Taubes’s erstwhile mentor, long turned enemy.

2022. A bookstore in Germany, France, or the United States. Four books by Taubes are now on the shelves: his republished doctoral dissertation, a collection of his essays, a booklet on Carl Schmitt, and an edited version of his lectures on the political theology of the Apostle Paul. Taubes’s books have been translated into a dozen languages. His Political Theology of Paul has legitimated Paul as a radical figure, and a slew of European intellectuals, searching for new sources of inspiration after the discrediting of communism, take up the theme.

How did the ordained scion of a rabbinic family become an influential interpreter of Saint Paul? What was there about Taubes that led him to figures as diverse as Irving Kristol and Rudi Dutschke, Leo Strauss and Herbert Marcuse, Gershom Scholem and Carl Schmitt? And why were such a range of intellectual luminaries attracted to Jacob Taubes at one time or another?
Those are among the questions that this book tries to answer.

The life of Jacob Taubes covers a wide swath of the intellectual history of the twentieth century. Fate, cultural affinities, and an inner restlessness took him from interwar Vienna, to wartime Switzerland, to postwar New York, then to Israel in the years after the founding of the Jewish state, to several great American universities, and finally to the Free University in West Berlin, where he spent the largest portion of his adult life, with frequent visits to Paris, London, and Jerusalem. His was a restless existence, full of tension and contradictions. But those personal tensions and contradictions mirrored many larger issues: of religious belief versus scholarship; of allegiance to one’s origins and the urge to escape them; of institutional membership and radical criticism; and above all, of the relationship between religion and politics.

It was Taubes’s powerful mind and dramatic persona that seem to have attracted so remarkable a range of twentieth-century intellectuals in German-speaking Europe, the United States, France, and Israel. He was a repository of knowledge about the high culture of the West, both religious and secular—but also a storehouse of gossip about academics and intellectuals on three continents. He had a wide-ranging mind and was constantly on the lookout for large historical patterns. He was multilingual, fluent in German, English, French, Hebrew, and Yiddish, with a reading knowledge of Latin and Greek. He was, in some moods at least, a remarkable conversationalist, his talk full of energy, learning, and biting wit.

Yet, in interviewing scores of people who knew Jacob Taubes, I found the word most frequently used to describe him was “demonic”—a description used not only by his enemies, but by his friends. That designation is not entirely censorious, for in Plato it also connotes a semidivine source of creativity. Another adjective applied to Taubes was “Mephistophelian,” with a similarly dual connotation of danger and inspiration. And then, there were those who opted for the more unequivocal “Satanic.” Jacob Taubes exuded the fascination of the liminal and the paradoxical. For his was an existence on the border between Judaism and Christianity, between skepticism and belief, between scholarly distance and religious fervor. He was a man given to abstraction on the one hand, and carnality on the other. His was an erotic life in the many senses of the word.

During his lifetime and after, those who knew Jacob Taubes debated the depth, accuracy, and originality of his ideas. To some he seemed a genius, to others a charlatan, to yet others, “a con, but not a fraud.” As we will see, there are plausible grounds for all of these judgments.
To those who knew him, Jacob Taubes could be a source of joy and mirth, but he was both tormented and capable of tormenting others. He thrived on disorder and created disorder around him. He could elevate lives and wreck them. That is why Jacob Taubes was the object of love, fascination, fear, and antipathy—often by the same individual in successive phases of encounter.

But this book is not only about Jacob Taubes the man. It uses his biography to reconstruct a series of intellectual milieus in which Taubes operated. Those include the interactions between Christian and Jewish theologians in the shadow of the Holocaust; the New York Jewish intellectuals in the postwar decade; the Hebrew University in the late 1940s and early 1950s; the establishment of the academic study of religion in the United States in the 1950s; the creation of Jewish studies in West Germany; and the radicalization and deradicalization of German academic life from the 1960s to the 1980s.

Taubes is of particular interest as an intellectual conduit and a merchant of ideas between the American and German intellectual contexts from the 1940s through the 1980s, roles rarely explored in the writing of modern intellectual history. Ideas do not move across national and linguistic boundaries by their own force. Their transfer depends on the ability of individuals to stimulate others to take particular ideas seriously. That includes those who act as advisors and editors at journals and publishing houses, or who bring together intellectuals from a variety of disciplines or nations in academic conferences. Taubes played all of those roles. He was a self-appointed spotter and promoter of talent.

Taubes’s published output was modest. But that is by no means an accurate measure of his influence, which often took the form of suggestions to others about unexpected lines of inquiry—or of experience—that they might pursue. He was influential behind the scenes, a secret agent in the academic world. The thinkers who get the most attention from historians tend to be those who exert influence through systematic and coherent research and inquiry. But then there are figures like Taubes—less easily documented, but not necessarily less significant in intellectual life—whose impact takes more diffuse forms.

Though Jacob Taubes may not have been among the most profound intellectuals of the twentieth century, his life is among the most interesting. He traversed different religious camps, political orientations, and national contexts. The intellectual and spiritual dilemmas he confronted were among the most pressing and widely shared of the age.
For many of those who encountered him as a teacher, Taubes embodied intellectualism as a way of life: a person who not only thought about ideas, but could impart them with verve. His breadth of knowledge, brilliance of insight, and sharpness of wit could dazzle. Though he spent most of his life in academic settings and taught at some of the most distinguished universities in the world, he was anything but a typical professor—nor did he seek to be. He aspired to be less a scholar than a seer. His self-appointed role was that of a gnostic, apocalypticist, or revolutionist—a man who fed on crisis, constantly on the lookout for signs of the impending destruction and transformation of a world perceived as evil or corrupted. To some that made him inspiring, to others frightening, to some a treasure, to others a purveyor of fool’s gold.

This book combines several genres. It is a biography of a colorful, dramatic, and enigmatic personality, portraying his struggles, inner and outer conflicts, his achievements and disappointments. Because it is the biography of an intellectual, it is perforce a study of the ideas with which he wrestled and what he did with them. And because its protagonist was in conversation with so many of the leading intellectuals in Europe, Israel, and the United States, it is also a mosaic of twentieth-century intellectual life and an intellectual Baedeker, that is, a guide to key figures, schools, ideas, and controversies. As such, it tries to provide readers unacquainted with one or another thinker or milieu with enough information to make sense of the matters at hand. Since there are few readers who will be equally familiar with Christian “crisis theology,” the Frankfurt School of critical theorists, the radical Hasidic sect of Toldot Aharon, and debates over “political theology,” my hope is that readers already conversant with one or another of these will keep in mind that other readers will find these subjects terra incognita. My intention is that readers will find themselves learning about new intellectual worlds and the surprising ways in which Jacob Taubes managed to travel among them, as a facilitator, promoter, and connecting node.

My interest in Taubes was motivated in the first instance by two concerns. One was intellectual: to explore a chapter in the relationship between religion and politics, between religious belief and the historical and philosophical critique of religion, and religious critiques of modern liberal society—a twentieth-century chapter in a story that begins in the seventeenth century with Hobbes and Spinoza.

The second was the challenge of trying to explain the life of an enigmatic thinker and to discover why so many twentieth-century intellectuals found him of interest. In December 2003, I met up with Irving Kristol and his wife, Gertrude Himmelfarb, after a public lecture on Leo Strauss, during which the speaker had discussed Strauss’s analysis of Maimonides in Persecution and the Art of Writing. I asked the couple whether they remembered a seminar I had heard about on Maimonides with Jacob Taubes, in which they had participated more than half a century earlier. Irving’s eyes lit up: Remember? Of course he did, for Jacob Taubes was unforgettable, “the only really charismatic intellectual” he had met. “Someone should write something about him,” Irving averred. I took up the challenge of trying to reconstruct and recapture the life of a charismatic intellectual.

A Note on Sources and on Psychology

The most important vector of influence for most intellectuals is through their publications. But not for Taubes, who, as we will see, had trouble writing for publication. Taubes actually wrote a great deal, but in the form of letters to colleagues, friends, and occasionally, enemies. Thus in reconstructing his life, I have made extensive use of his letters—scattered in archives and repositories in Europe, Israel, and the United States. Once I embarked on this project, over a decade ago, it became clear to me that one of the most important sources for understanding his life and influence was through those who had known him, and that, given the limits of human longevity, some of his peers would not be around much longer. I therefore made a point of interviewing as many people as possible who knew Taubes at various stages of his life, from his bar mitzvah in Vienna through his death in Berlin. That has involved over one hundred interviews, some by telephone, many in person. Most of those I approached were eager to talk about Taubes; but not a few refused, sometimes with comments like “Jacob Taubes was an evil man whose memory should be blotted out.”

Memories, of course, must be treated with caution, for they are always partial and often reflect retrospective judgments. I have used them primarily in conjunction with archival or published sources, and wherever possible have tried to rely on multiple interviews to establish the facts. But Jacob Taubes was a person about whom many tales were told, both by others and by Taubes himself. These tales are themselves part of his story.

I have found indispensable the novel Divorcing, published in 1969 by Jacob’s former wife, Susan Taubes. Though a work of fiction and hence of the creative imagination, it draws very heavily on the actual lives of Jacob and Susan Taubes, which are portrayed through a variety of lenses, some comic, some surrealistic. Nevertheless, there are times when the novel points to events that help illuminate archival sources. Used with caution, it provides yet another source from which to reconstruct the extraordinary life and times of Jacob Taubes.

When he was in his early fifties, Taubes suffered from a major episode of clinical depression, which was diagnosed as bipolar disorder, a condition characterized by periods of euphoria and high energy, alternating with periods of despair and lassitude. After treatment, he continued to cycle through manic and depressive phases of varying intensity. But like many who experience his form of the illness (what diagnosticians term “Bipolar II”), its symptoms appeared much earlier, in the milder form of hypomania. That is a moderately manic condition, characterized by a profusion of ideas and fluency in associating ideas with one another.2

Hypomanics frequently exhibit enhanced liveliness, interpersonal charm, and a high degree of perceptiveness, together with a sometimes uncanny ability to find vulnerable spots in others and to make use of them.3 When in the hypomanic state, they are prone to “excessive involvement in pleasurable activities that have a high potential for painful consequences.”4 While manic depression is debilitating, the condition, especially in its milder form of hypomania, can also be a source of intellectual energy, creativity, and personal effervescence. It is part of what made Jacob Taubes both charismatic and puzzling. It would be reductive to explain Jacob Taubes's character as a symptom of an underlying biological condition, but to ignore the role of biology in accounting for personality would be equally fallacious.

A Note on Names

Jacob and his family functioned in a variety of languages—German, Hebrew, Yiddish, and English—and the spelling of their names varied accordingly. To spare the reader from unnecessary complications, I have tried to employ a single spelling for each name. For the first twenty-three years of his life, Jacob's name was spelled “Jakob,” in the German fashion. When he first moved to the United States, he changed it to “Jacob,” the spelling he retained thereafter. Jacob's father spelled his name “Zwi,” pronounced “Tzvi.” Jacob's sister's name was Mirjam, pronounced “Miriam.”
Figure 0.1. Jacob Taubes, Bar Mitzvah, Vienna, 1936. (Ethan and Tania Taubes Collection.)
INDEX

Figures are denoted by page numbers in italics

Abendroth, Wolfgang, 278
Abramsky, Chimen, 322–23
Abteilung für Hermeneutik (Division of Hermeneutics), 270–71, 397. See also Institut für Hermeneutik (Berlin)
Academy for Jewish Research (Berlin), 112
Adams, James Luther, 233
Adenauer, Konrad, 293
Adorno, Theodor W., 197–202, 216, 221, 263, 276–80, 284–90, 301, 309–23, 344–46, 364–71, 381–84, 400, 412, 444, 494, 521; on the "culture industry," 107; Dialectic of Enlightenment (Dialektik der Aufklärung), 200, 206; Negative Dialectics (Negative Dialektik), 384. See also Frankfurt School
Aeschel Avrohom (synagogue), 24
Agamben, Giorgio, 508, 510–13
Agassi, Joseph, 164, 172, 397
Agnoli, Johannes, 338
Agnon, Shmuel Yosef (Shai), 9, 147, 153
Agudat Yisrael, 22–23, 42. See also ultra-Orthodox Judaism
Agus, Aharon, 426, 430, 504, 506
Aiken, Henry, 223
Aktion Sühnezeichen (Action Reconciliation), 319
Albright Institute for Archeological Research, 428, 430
Alternative: Zeitschrift für Literatur und Diskussion (magazine), 309
Althaus, Gabriele, 412
Althuser, Louis, 438–39, 509; Pour Marx, 439
Altmann, Alexander, 92, 317, 320
Amalek, 26, 468–69
American Academy of Religion, 259
Anshen, Ruth Nanda, 134
anticapitalism: in Germany, 200; leftwing, 310, 508–9; radical, 521; romantic, 382 antinomianism, 66–70, 75, 95, 115, 121–28, 158, 203, 250, 396–97, 426–27, 450; apocalyptic, 314; in Christianity, 427; Gnostic, 298, 329; heresy and, 171, 424; history of, 214; in Judaism, 152, 191; of messianism, 191, 211; mystical, 127, 204; of Paul, 127, 162, 171, 192, 211, 427–29, 436, 491–93, 512, 521. See also Gnosticism antisemitism: Brentano and, 293–94, 373; Christian, 35, 38–40; confrontation of Taubes with, 523; German, 47, 319, 456, 458; Marxism and, 294; mass demonstration against, 294; Nazi, 308; pagan, 170; philosophical, 225; of Sander, 453; of Schmitt, 62, 415, 461, 489, 502; stereotypes of, 400; in Switzerland, 33, 36, 82; in the United States, 100, 238; in the Viennese public school system, 25; violence of, 33, 82. See also fascism; Judaism apikores, 171, 250, 320. See also heresy apocalypticism: Balthasar on secularization of religious apocalypticism, 46, 63–65, 72; biblical Israel as the origin of revolutionaries, 76; Christian, 314; Gnostic and, 71, 75–77, 195, 254, 291, 329, 487; hazards of, 252; history of, 77–78, 247; the idea of the free spirit in, 205; Jewish, 77–78, 94–96, 314; of Marx, 72; and messianism, 434; moment of, 336–54, 521; movements of, 75, 247, 314, 383, 508, 521; of the New Left, 508, 521; of Paul, 77, 493; revolutionary, 78–79; of Taubes, 5, 72, 115, 158, 453, 476, 487, 496, 501, 521. See also eschatology; Gnosticism; theology
Aptowitzer, Victor (Avigdor), 19, 534n33
Argument, Das (journal), 274, 342, 374, 377, 389–91, 407
Argument-Klub, 275
Arieti, Silvano, 245, 302, 394
Aristotle: Metaphysics, 120; Physics, 120
Arndt, Hans-Joachim, 196, 216, 262, 468, 475, 500–501, 519
Arnold, Melvin, 214, 217
Assmann, Corinna, 486, 495
athlon: of the Enlightenment, 159; Jewish, 129; philosophical, 113, 153, 165; rise of, 122; theological, 119, 159–60. See also philosophy
Auerbach, Erich, 306; Mimesis: The Representation of Reality in Western Literature, 203, 251
Augustine, 77–78, 119, 189, 257
“Auschwitz Protocol,” 37
Ausser-Parlamentarische Opposition (APO), 370–71
Austria, 28–33
Aviad, Janet. See Scheindlin, Janet (Aviad)
Awerbuch, Marianne, 318–21, 392, 394, 397–98, 400–402, 408
Axel Springer Verlag, 366, 388, 45. See also Welt, Die
Baader, Andreas, 372, 458
Ba’al Shem Tov, 27
Bachmann, Ingeborg, 265, 296–97, 301, 327, 451
Bachofen, Johann Jacob, 87
Badiou, Alain, 508–13; Saint Paul: Le fondation de l’universalisme, 509
Baek, Leo, 45, 97, 131, 141, 225, 490, 494; The Essence of Judaism, 17
Balthasar, Hans Urs von, 46, 53, 57, 63–66, 72–75, 78, 87, 143, 195, 232; Apocalypse der deutschen Seele, 72
Band, Arnold, 149, 223
Barasch, Moshe, 421, 430, 470, 504, 506
Baron, Salo W., 9, 20, 85, 137, 182, 232, 317, 428
Barth, Hans, 72–73, 81
Barth, Karl, 38–40, 53–65, 122, 185–90, 211, 215, 232, 245, 248, 268, 521;
barth, Robert, 216, 242, 306
Ben-Gurion, David, 156, 163
Ben-Shlomo, Yosef, 151–52, 421–22
Benz, Ernst, 75
Berger, Peter L., 242
Bergmann, Hugo, 93, 147–54, 160, 168–72, 177–79, 188, 196
Berlin, 19, 45–49, 242, 264–304, 430–49, 470–85, 494–95; as a divided city, 508; Jews in, 32; New York and, 264–304; Reform seminary in, 17. See also Free University (Freie Universität) Berlin; East Germany; West Germany
Berlin, Isaiah, 282, 385
Berman, Marshall, 251–53, 562n46
Bein, Pawel, 327
Bialik, Haim Nachman, 30
biblical criticism: Christian, 54–55, 330; and the critique of Christianity of Nietzsche, 54; and the history of apocalypticism, 77; of Hobbes, 330; Jewish, 16, 18–20, 102; of Maimonides, 114, 120; political implications of, 58; rejection of historical-critical approaches to, 54–55; of the Religiongeschichte school of scholarship, Chomsky, Noam, 216, 335, 407
Christianity: antisemitism in, 40, 513; apocalypticism in the history of, 72, 314; Barth on the dangerous element of, 55; chiliasm of, 121, 436; civilization of, 189; concept of divine compassion in, 89; conversion to, 124, 315; democracy and, 206; early communities of, 53–54, 77, 184–86, 194, 246; eschatology of, 64–65, 76–78, 184–86, 315, 465–66; the founder of, 77; history of, 149, 184–86, 191, 206–7, 244, 436, 492, 513; and the idea of the free spirit, 205–7; in Jerusalem, 153; Jewish, 490; Judaism and, 3, 17, 22, 35–39, 66, 77, 90, 100–101, 108, 130, 190–93, 215, 248, 269, 490, 523; and Marxism, 67; medieval, 64; of the New Testament, 54; Palestine as the holy land of, 91; philosophy and, 160; as the root and origin of modern liberal culture, 54; sectarianism of, 95; and secularism, 65, 184, 211, 512; struggle of competing trends in the tradition of, 53; symbols of, 329; universalism of, 165; in Western Europe, 512. See also biblical criticism; eschatology; Gnosticism; Jesus of Nazareth; Judaism; Paul; Roman Catholicism; theology
Christian Socialism, 33, 51
Christlich-jüdische Arbeitsgemeinschaft in der Schweiz (Christian-Jewish Working Group in Switzerland), 90
Cioran, Emil, 254, 283, 328, 413, 438, 445–46, 471; History of Decay, 328 citizenship: American, 24, 167, 230, 350; Austrian, 24; German, 270; for Jewish immigrants, 24, 32; Swiss, 32–34, 84
Claessens, Dieter, 342
Cleaver, Eldridge, 365
Cohen, David, 153
Cohen, Elliot, 115, 117, 189
Cohen, Geula, 151–52, 154
Cohn, Norman: The Pursuit of the Millennium, 208
Cold War, 107, 189, 237, 273, 369, 410
Colpe, Carsten, 311, 333, 402, 420, 507
Columbia University, 2, 85, 100, 181, 197, 232–76, 291, 302–11. See also New York
Commentary (magazine), 115–17, 123–25, 137, 188–92, 202, 250, 256, 505, 548n15 communism: atheistic, 189; of China, 362; and the church, 46, 330; direction of history of, 46; of East Germany, 67, 350, 368, 388, 406; and ethnic commitments, 23; of intellectuals, 382–83; in a philosophy department, 390; realm of freedom and justice of, 72; universalist ideology of, 154. See also Leninism; Maoism; Marxism; revolution; socialism
Confessing Church (Bekennende Kirche), 56, 268
Congress for Cultural Freedom, 47–48, 227
Cramer, Ernst, 456
crisis theology, 5, 54, 245. See also dialectical theology; theology
Criticón (magazine), 498
Cuttat, Albert Jacques, 245
Dan, Joseph, 431, 433, 471
Davis, Angela, 364–65
Debray, Régis, 309
Decter, Midge, 250, 305
Derrida, Jacques, 303, 313, 400, 442, 470–72, 510, 516; L’écriture et la différence, 313
Dialectica (journal), 87 dialectical theology, 54; of Barth, 185–87; of Paul, 436; of Tillich, 186. See also crisis theology
Dickstein, Morris, 251–53
Dillinger, John, 233–34
dissenters: East European, 327, 356, 379–81; East German, 406; feminist, 347; Marxist, 327
Divorcing (Susan Taubes), 164, 215, 255, 292–98, 356–58, 499–500, 507, 518; account by Mohler of, 499
Dodds, E. R.: Pagan and Christian in an Age of Anxiety, 385
Dostoyevsky, Fyodor: The Possessed, 229
Dreyfus, Armand, 143, 210, 300

Dreyfus, Hubert, 210
Dreyfus, Paul François, 428–29
Duerr, Hans Peter, 388
Dutschke, Rudi, 2, 313, 338, 342–45, 362, 370–72, 412
East Germany, 67, 267, 269, 326, 456–57, 508; Communist party of, 271, 350, 364, 368, 378, 388–90, 400, 406, 583n14; national anthem of, 294; secret service of, 339; students of, 273, 350, 388. See also Berlin; Germany; Honecker, Erich; West Germany

Eberz, Otfried, 87
École biblique et archéologique française, 428–29
École des hautes études en sciences sociales, 439
École normale supérieure, 265, 402, 438–39, 509
Edelstein, Chava Leah, 34
Edelstein, Ludwig, 226
Edelstein, Natan Neta Yaakov, 13
Edelstein, Zachary, 481
Ehrenpreis, Marcus, 38
Eichenstein, Zvi-Hirsch (Zhidichover Rebbe), 12, 13–14
Einbinder, Susan, 480
Einstein, Albert, 101, 231
Eisler, Hanns, 294
electroconvulsive therapy (ECT), 395–96, 439, 480
Eliade, Mircea, 245
Elliott, William Yandell, 195–96, 216, 219
Encounter (magazine), 249
Encyclopedia Judaica, 125
“enlightened polytheism” (Marquard), 466–67
Enlightenment, 161; Jewish, 13, 95, 153, 433
Ennslin, Gudrun, 372
Enzensberger, Hans Magnus, 281, 292
Epstein, Jason, 207–8
Erdös, Ernst, 352
Erikson, Erik: Young Man Luther, 280
eschatology, 56, 71–98, 121, 171, 272; of the Bible, 185, 466; Christian, 64, 184, 315, 465–66; history of, 64, 184, 258; Jewish, 433, 515; and messianism, 57, 60; and movements of religiously inspired renewal, 35; and Nazi racism, 35; occidental, 46, 60, 66, 70–80, 520; political, 500; revolutionary, 208, 228; secularization of, 60, 64–66, 195, 463, 467. See also apocalypticism; chiliasm; Christianity; Judaism; messianism; theology existentialism: anthology of, 225; expressionism of, 73; Kabbalah and, 110; of Kierkegaard, 174; Marxism and, 167, 186, 379, 386; psychoanalysis of, 245; religious, 186, 190, 232; of Sartre, 386

Faber, Richard, 346–47, 444, 466, 470, 473–74, 507
Fachbereich 11, 362–69, 388–91, 400; creation of, 362; dissolution of, 405–8. See also Free University (Freie Universität) Berlin Fackenheim, Emil, 122, 188, 189
fascism: in Berlin, 340; capitalism and, 374; in Germany, 370, 411; historians of, 376–77, 409; in Hungary, 37; in Italy, 333; Jewish, 307, 400; “left-wing fascism,” 344, 371–72; liberalism and, 199, 290, 294; and Nazism, 370; struggle against, 374; in Switzerland, 36; theories of, 333. See also antisemitism; Nazism
Feigel, Sigy, 485
Feldmann, Moses, 134
Ferry, Luc, 486
Festinger, Leon: When Prophecy Fails, 280
Feuer, Lewis S.: Spinoza and the Rise of Liberalism, 217
Feyerabend, Paul, 334–35, 364, 385, 389
Fietkau, Wolfgang, 473
Finkelstein, Emunah, 108–9, 127, 140
Fink Verlag, 324, 468, 485, 505, 518
First, Elsa, 215, 293, 358, 391
Fischer, Elisabeth, 377
Fischer, Wolfram, 377
Flechtheim, Osip, 268, 375
Fleischmann, Jacob, 149, 306
Flügge, Thomas, 311
Folkers, Horst, 503–4
Ford Foundation, 268, 296
Forschungstätte der Evangelischen Studiengemeinschaft (FEST), 487–88, 503–5
Foucault, Michel, 313, 314, 327, 346, 472; Les mots et les choses, 313
Fraenkel, Ernst, 268, 375
Frank, Jacob, 69, 94, 253, 298, 359
Frank, Judge Jerome, 244
Frankel, Zachariah, 161
Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung (newspaper), 314, 377, 443, 474, 498
Frankfurter Rundschau (newspaper), 443, 498
Frankfurt School, 5, 107, 196–202, 278, 284, 311, 364, 457. See also Adorno, Theodor W.; Habermas, Jürgen; Horkheimer, Max; Marcuse, Herbert; Zeitschrift für Sozialforschung (journal)
Frankist movement, 94–95, 434
Free University (Freie Universität) Berlin, 48, 219, 247, 336–51, 362–88, 398–414, 430, 442–44, 470–73; “democratization” of, 370; revolutionary consciousness at the, 371. See also Berlin; Fachbereich 11; West Germany
Freies Jüdisches Lehrhaus, 48
French Communist Party, 47
Freud, Sigmund, 22, 88, 134, 199, 214–18, 240–41, 256–61, 309–13, 494; and Marx, 278; Moses and Monotheism, 311
Friedländer, Saul, 474, 477, 482–84
Fries, Horace, 240–41, 245–46, 257
Frisch, Max, 296
Fromm, Erich, 105, 204, 256; Escape from Freedom, 105
Frosch, William, 395
Funkenstein, Amos, 319–21, 401
Furth, Eva, 391
Furth, Peter, 275, 294, 342, 374, 389–91, 402, 406, 501
Gadamer, Hans-Georg, 285–87, 316, 404
Gager, John, 513
Galicia, 9–10, 19, 22–26, 30, 250, 266, 424–25, 534n16
Gäng, Peter, 498
Gasché, Rodolphe, 312–14, 470
Gehlen, Arnold, 277, 288, 306, 471; Social-Psychological Problems of Industrial Society (Soziopsychologische Probleme der Industriegesellschaft), 261
Geiger, Abraham, 21, 161
Genet, Jean: The Balcony (play), 252
Gente, Peter, 309, 313, 472, 502–3; Neuer Roter Katechismus (New Red Catechism), 309
Gerhardt, Uta, 311, 349
Germany: academic positions in, 263; American occupation of, 219; European Jews from displaced persons camps in, 147; exclusion of Jews from social and economic life in Nazi, 28–33, 112, 148, 194, 197; Galician Jews in, 10; imperial, 54; intellectuals attracted to National Socialism in, 196, 261; interwar intellectual life of, 193; invasion of Austria by Nazi, 28, 33, 194; invasion of Czechoslovakia by Nazi, 35; national identity of, 456; newspapers in Nazi, 73; “persons of Jewish origin” in, 131; radical conservative thinkers of, 49. See also Berlin; East Germany; Nazism; Weimar Republic; West Germany
Geyer, Ruth, 321
Ginzberg, Louis, 101
Glatzer, Judith (Wechsler), 215, 295–96
Glatzer, Nahum, 137, 190, 213–16, 232, 317, 320
Glazer, Nathan, 1, 116–18, 124, 188
Glazer, Ruth (Gay), 117
Glotz, Peter, 406–7, 418, 469, 498
Gnosticism: antinomianism of, 88, 95, 260, 298; and apocalypticism, 71, 75–76, 195, 205, 254, 291, 329, 385, 487, 505; eschatology and, 64; Heidegger and, 67–68, 66–65, 168, 212; as a heresy, 55, 64, 67, 194, 446; history of, 333, 420; Jewish, 96, 121–22, 168, 318, 400; and Kabbalah, 174; Paul as influenced by, 76–77, 196, 206, 220, 255, 450; phenomenological account of, 68; philosophical concepts of, 215; relationship of modernity to, 326, 328, 464; as a revolutionary doctrine,
INDEX

Haas, Alexander, 470, 495
Habermas, Jürgen, 197, 276–87, 295, 309, 333, 344–47, 364, 369–72, 386, 408–12, 458–60, 495, 527; Legitimation Problems of Late Capitalism, 369; Observations on “The Spiritual Situation of the Age,” 411; Protest Movement and University Reform, 369; Technique and Science as Ideology, 369; Theory and Practice, 369; Toward a Reconstruction of Historical Materialism, 369. See also Frankfurt School

Halbertal, Moshe, 424–25
Hamacher, Werner, 442, 470, 495, 516
Hammer, Zevulun, 422–24
Harnack, Adolf von, 54–55, 185
Hartman, David, 423–24
Hartwich, Wolf-Daniel, 503–5
Hartz, Louis, 219

Harvard Divinity School, 212, 215, 219, 224
Harvard University, 2, 128, 149, 181, 194–233, 252, 257, 292, 305–7

Hasidism, 1, 57–58, 96, 110, 192, 420, 429, 434, 488; dynasties of, 22, 425; early, 427; founder of, 27; Jewish spirituality of, 42, 188; Sabbatianism and, 174; sects of, 43, 417–18; seminar on the literature of, 269, 319–20. See also Judaism; Lubavitch; Toldot Aharon (Reb Arele Hasidim)

Haug, Wolfgang Fritz, 275, 363, 369, 374, 377, 389, 497
Hayek, Friedrich, 182, 334
Hebrew Teachers College (Paedagogium) (Vienna), 20

Hegel, G.W.F., 79, 131, 158–62, 195–201, 209–14, 240–41, 255–61, 463, 471; Goethe and, 65; and Heidegger, 165, 257; interpreters of, 224, 288, 341; and Marx, 76, 198, 202, 232, 463; and Nietzsche, 224–25; Phenomenology of Spirit, 211, 252, 259; Philosophy of History, 219; philosophy of history of, 53, 79, 211, 269; as a progenitor of radical social theory, 214; synthesis of, 158; theological writings of, 211
Heidegger, Martin, 58–80, 90, 112, 122, 155–72, 241, 277, 329–33, 408, 443, 455, 465, 487; critique of, 288; interpreters of, 210, 286–87; and National Socialism, 196, 261; Sein und Zeit, 58, 107, 160; “Vom Wesen der Wahrheit,” 74

Heller, Agnes, 380–81, 497

Heller, Clemens, 436, 438, 482, 486

Herbst, Will, 188–91

heresy: Gnosticism as, 55, 64, 67; history of, 203–9, 212, 225; Jewish schools of, 18, 95, 424; Paul on the edge of, 56; religion on the edge of, 424. See also apikores

Hermeneutic Colloquium (Berlin), 327, 331, 385, 430, 442–44. See also Institut für Hermeneutik (Berlin)

Herzfeld, Hans, 376

Herzl, Theodore, 19

Heschel, Abraham Joshua, 101, 110, 189, 192, 244

Heschel, Susannah, 298

Himmelfarb, Gertrude (Kristol), 1, 6, 116–24, 188, 249, 305

Hirsch, Baron Maurice de, 14

Hirsch, Samson Raphael, 18

Hirsch, Vita Yota, 12, 14

historical consciousness, 185, 187, 247–48; Jewish, 321; religious origins of modern, 320. See also biblical criticism

Hivi Ha-Balki, 122

Hobbes, Thomas, 5, 113, 119, 330, 458, 461, 471; Leviathan, 466, 475

Hobshawn, Eric, 352, 386, 438

Hochschule für die Wissenschaft des Judentums (Berlin), 17

Hofstadter, Richard, 238

Holocaust: aftermath of the, 513; experience of the, 150, 441; fears of another, 351; Jewish response to the, 38, 44, 431; pictures of the, 156; study of the, 373–74, 477; survivors of the, 44, 140, 375, 484; Swiss response to the, 36, 38; traditional ritual and the, 153. See also Judaism

Holz, Hans Heinz, 280, 364, 379

Holzkamp, Klaus, 363

Honecker, Erich, 406. See also East Germany

Horkheimer, Max, 197–204, 216–22, 246, 263, 267, 276–79, 284–94, 382, 412; critique of capitalism of, 107, 369, 521; on the “culture industry,” 107; Dialectic of Enlightenment (Dialektik der Aufklärung), 200, 206; Eclipse of Reason, 200–202, 221; and empirical social research, 277; “The Jews and Europe,” 290. See also Frankfurt School

Houston, Jean, 254–55, 357

Hübener, Wolfgang, 312, 449, 470

Huizinga, Johan: Homo Ludens: A Study of the Play-Element in Culture, 217

Hungary: Communism in, 46; Eastern European leftist dissident intellectuals in, 379–81; Galician Jews streaming into, 10; German occupation of, 37; Jews of, 1, 13, 35–38, 43–44, 56, 173

Hutchinson, John, 232

Hyman, Arthur, 394

Institut für Evangelische Theologie (Berlin), 268

Institut für Hermeneutik (Berlin), 313. See also Abteilung für Hermeneutik; Hermeneutic Colloquium (Berlin)

Institut für Judaistik (Berlin), 266–70, 317–22

Institut für Kirche und Judentum (Berlin), 319

Irenaeus: Against Heresies, 67

Iser, Wolfgang, 324–26

Israel, 3–6; conflict between state and religion in, 188; engagement of Taubes with, 144–64, 166–67, 171, 178–79, 349, 416–30; German attitudes toward, 148, 156, 269, 319; immigration to, 143, 147, 150; as the Jewish state, 20–27, 44, 83, 103, 108, 143–70, 269, 340, 422, 510; life in, 179; messianism in, 77, 424, 434–35, 521; and the New Left, 351–54, 399; War of Independence of, 69; Zionism and, 410, 423, 434–35. See also Greater Israel Movement; Jerusalem; Judaism; Six Day War; Zionism

Israelitische Cultusgemeinde (Zurich), 30–31
Judaism: academic study of, 15–18; and assimilation into German society, 84, 112; and Christianity, 3, 17, 22, 35–39, 66, 77, 90, 100–101, 108, 139, 191–93, 215, 248, 269, 490, 523; and the conversion of Jews to Christianity, 215; of Eastern Europe and Russia, 10; and the fate of the Jews, 169; the feminine element in, 262; messianic, 57, 66, 228, 247; national element of, 10; Orthodox, 17–20, 38, 111, 187, 249; plausibility of religious, 124; rabbinic, 247, 514; Reform, 17–18, 241, 248; symbols of, 248; Western, 10.

See also antisemitism; biblical criticism; Christianity; eschatology; Hasidism; Holocaust; Israel; kabbalah; Ostjuden (Eastern European Jews); Pharisees; Reform Judaism; Sabbatian movement; Talmud; theology; ultra-Orthodox Judaism; yeshiva; Zionism

Judaism (journal), 259

Jüdisches-Theologisches Seminar (Brussels), 17

Jung, Carl, 122, 204

Jünger, Ernst, 49–51, 58, 156, 180, 314; Der Arbeiter, 58

Jünger, Friedrich Georg: The Failure of Technology: Perfection without Purpose, 49

Kabbalah: expertise in, 421; and Gnosticism, 122; God’s self-contraction (zimzum) as a notion of, 161, 424; Lurianic, 13, 161; and Maimonides, 45; and Sabbatai Zevi, 78; sources of, 97; texts of, 384; theory of sex in the tradition of, 88. See also Judaism; mysticism

Kafka, Franz, 88, 295

Kahler, Erich von, 321

Kalinowsky, Lothar, 395

Kamper, Dietmar, 470, 472

Jonas, Hans, 67–70, 75–76, 80, 93, 112, 204, 215, 223, 244–45, 419, 497, 507; Gnosticism and the Spirit of Late Antiquity, 67; The Gnostic Religion, 217, 414; as interpreter of Gnosticism, 245, 260, 298, 328, 420; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 65, 158

Jones, Harry, 234

Jones, Rufus M.: Mysticism and Democracy in the English Commonwealth, 204

Journal of Jewish Studies (journal), 436

Jesus of Nazareth, 21, 162, 185, 493; acts of healing of, 193; as the Christ, 441; critique of “scribes and Pharisees” of, 427; the death of, 77, 95, 252, 427, 433, 490–91; as exemplary human, 54; in the Gospels, 492; in the halachic tradition, 489; Israel’s rejection of, 192; Jewish life in the age of, 312; and the Kingdom of God, 487; the life of, 511; as messianic figure, 77, 191, 433, 490–91; as part of a larger messianic wave in Israel, 77; physical ugliness of, 329; portrait of, 53, 252, 489; return at the end of days of, 60. See also Christianity; messianism; Pharisees

Jewish Theological Seminary (JTS), 1, 34, 92–143, 159, 174, 239–49, 311, 317, 427–28. See also New York

Jews. See Judaism

Joachim of Fiore, 72, 75, 78, 195, 284, 463

Joachimsthaler Straße synagogue, 305, 315, 482–83, 486, 495

John Paul II (Karol Wojtyla, pope), 65, 404

Jonas, Hans, 67–70, 75–76, 80, 93, 112, 204, 215, 223, 244–45, 419, 497, 507; Gnosticism and the Spirit of Late Antiquity, 67; The Gnostic Religion, 217, 414; as interpreter of Gnosticism, 245, 260, 298, 328, 420; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 65, 158

Jones, Harry, 234

Jones, Rufus M.: Mysticism and Democracy in the English Commonwealth, 204

Journal of Jewish Studies (journal), 436

Judaism: academic study of, 15–18; and assimilation into German society, 84, 112; and Christianity, 3, 17, 22, 35–39, 66, 77, 90, 100–101, 108, 130, 191–93, 215, 248, 269, 490, 523; and the conversion of Jews to Christianity, 215; of Eastern Europe and Russia, 10; and the fate of the Jews, 169; the feminine element in, 262; messianic, 57, 66, 228, 247; national element of, 10; Orthodox, 17–20, 38, 111, 187, 249; plausibility of religious, 124; rabbinic, 247, 514; Reform, 17–18, 241, 248; symbols of, 248; Western, 10.

See also antisemitism; biblical criticism; Christianity; eschatology; Hasidism; Holocaust; Israel; kabbalah; Ostjuden (Eastern European Jews); Pharisees; Reform Judaism; Sabbatian movement; Talmud; theology; ultra-Orthodox Judaism; yeshiva; Zionism

Judaism (journal), 259

Jüdisches-Theologisches Seminar (Breslau), 17

Jung, Carl, 122, 204

Jünger, Ernst, 49–51, 58, 156, 180, 314; Der Arbeiter, 58

Jünger, Friedrich Georg: The Failure of Technology: Perfection without Purpose, 49

Kabbalah: expertise in, 421; and Gnosticism, 122; God’s self-contraction (zimzum) as a notion of, 161, 424; Lurianic, 13, 161; and Maimonides, 45; and Sabbatai Zevi, 78; sources of, 97; texts of, 384; theory of sex in the tradition of, 88. See also Judaism; mysticism

Kafka, Franz, 88, 295

Kahler, Erich von, 321

Kalinowsky, Lothar, 395

Kamper, Dietmar, 470, 472

For general queries, contact info@press.princeton.edu
“Kampf dem Atomtod” campaign, 269, 273, 294, 392
Kant, Immanuel, 88, 149, 219, 345
Kaplan, Abraham, 232
Kaplan, Mordecai, 102, 115, 129–30; Judaism as a Civilization, 102
KASSIBER (planned journal), 458
Katz, Jacob, 149, 332
Kaube, Jürgen, 474
Kaufmann, Fritz, 232–33
Kaufmann, Walter, 224–25, 244–45, 407; Nietzsche: Philosopher, Psychologist, Antichrist, 224, 229; The Portable Nietzsche, 229
Kelman, Wolfe, 125–29
Kenner, Hugh, 357–58
Kesey, Ken: One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest, 395
Kierkegaard, Søren, 58, 65, 79, 87, 122, 127, 160, 487; concept of anxiety of, 312; existentialist thought of, 174; philosophical categories drawn from, 90, 175
Kippenberg, Hans, 315–16
Kissinger, Henry, 195, 206, 475
Kittsteiner, Hans Dieter, 443
Klee, Paul: Angelus Novus, 348
Kleiner, Heinrich, 357
Knauer, Georg, 268, 375–76
Kochlin, Alphons, 37
Kohn, Abraham Yitzhak, 417
Kojève, Alexandre, 196, 210–11, 252, 282, 349–41, 371, 472
Kolakowski, Leszek, 327
Kommune 1, 338–39, 353, 373, 382
König, René, 59–61, 65, 71, 80–81, 277, 352
Konrád, György, 356
Koch, Solomon, 422
Koselleck, Reinhart, 259
Koyré, Alexandre, 233, 282; From the Closed World to the Infinite Universe, 280
Kracauer, Siegfried, 327, 329
Krah, Hans-Jürgen, 346, 370–72, 412
Kramer, Fritz, 442, 470
Krauss, Samuel, 18–19, 27
Krauss, Werner, 325–26
Kreibich, Rolf, 349–50, 365, 377–78, 401
Krielle, Martin, 460, 466
Krippendorff, Ekkehart, 337
Kristol, Irving, 1, 2, 6, 116–24, 188, 227, 249, 305
Kroner, Richard, 131
Krum, John, 239
Kuby, Erich, 347
Kullmann, Eugen, 48, 105, 319
Kunzelmann, Dieter, 312, 353
Lachmann, Renate, 330
Lacis, Asja, 382, 384
Lämmert, Eberhard, 401–4, 443, 518
Landmann, Salcia, 266, 269, 499, 501
Langer, Susan, 167
Lasker-Schuler, Else, 31
law: Greek, 509; Jewish religious, 15, 18, 21–22, 94, 114, 300, 509; Roman imperial, 221, 509
Lehrhaus. See Freies Jüdisches Lehrhaus
Leifman, Morton, 125–26, 129
Leites, Edmund, 260–61, 449, 470
Leninism, 46, 280, 294, 313, 363, 364, 387–88. See also communism; Marxism
Lenk, Elisabeth, 259
Lepoldstadt (Vienna), 23
Lepenies, Wolf, 314, 363
Leschner, Adolf, 266–68
Les Fontaines, 427, 440
Levinas, Emmanuel, 170, 516
Lévi-Strauss, Claude, 281
Lewis, C. I., 208, 222
Lewy, Hans Yochanan, 420
Lichtheim, George, 322–23, 352, 359
Lieber, Hans-Joachim, 303, 334, 350, 408
Lieberman, Saul, 108–12, 137, 140, 167, 172, 249, 258, 427
Lippman-Heller, YomTov, 27
Locke, Richard, 251–53, 256, 355, 357
Lovejoy, Arthur, 229, 233; Great Chain of Being, 280

Löwendahl, Richard, 274, 332, 337, 342–43, 342, 375–76; Jenseits des Kapitalismus (Beyond Capitalism), 274

Löwith, Karl, 80, 159, 316, 462–63; From Hegel to Nietzsche: The Revolution in Nineteenth Century Thought, 65, 203, 211; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 158; Meaning in History, 66, 203, 211; philosophy of history of, 74

Löwith, Karl, 80, 159, 316, 462–63; From Hegel to Nietzsche: The Revolution in Nineteenth Century Thought, 65, 203, 211; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 158; Meaning in History, 66, 203, 211; philosophy of history of, 74

Lubac, Henri de, 196

Lubavitch, 42, 249, 320, 480. See also Hasidism

Lübbe, Hermann, 325, 331, 334, 369, 376, 380, 455, 462, 465–68

Luchesi, Brigitte, 315

Luhmann, Niklas, 409

Lukács, Georg, 46, 198, 285, 309, 380–82; radical anticapitalism of, 521; History and Class Consciousness, 46, 217, 370–71

Luria, Isaac, 13, 78

Lustiger, Jean-Marie, 441–42, 486

Luther, Martin, 88, 119, 205

Lyotard, Jean François, 471–72; The Postmodern Condition, 472

Lypp, Bernhard, 311

Macho, Thomas, 506, 507

Macpherson, C. B., 282

Macuch, Rudolf, 311

Magnes, Judah, 103

Mahler, Gustav, 22, 339–40

Mahler, Gustav, 22, 339–40

Maier, Johann, 319, 321

Maimonides, 1, 118–24, 154, 162, 249; The Book of Knowledge, 118; The Guide to the Perplexed, 120, 419

Maimonides seminar, 1, 118–25

Maison des sciences de l’homme, 438, 441, 486

Maison Heinrich Heine, 438, 502

Mallet, Serge: La nouvelle classe ouvrière, 282

Mandel, Ernst, 379

Manic depression, 7, 126, 129, 355, 392–96, 414, 419, 450–51, 522; treatment for, 245. See also bipolar disorder

Mantello, George, 36–37

Manuel, Frank, 280

Maoism, 346, 359, 439, 509; Chinese, 227. See also communism

Marcion, 88, 446, 491, 494, 510, 520. See also Gnosticism

Marcus, Marcel, 322

Marcuse, Herbert, 197, 201–4, 212–16, 231, 250, 332–33, 341–48, 342; critique of capitalism of, 214, 278, 288, 370, 521; on the “culture industry,” 107; “The End of Utopia” (lecture), 2; Eros and Civilization, 214, 217–19, 256, 311; on the “Great Refusal,” 44, 417; and the Institute for Social Research, 196–97; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 65, 158; and the New Left, 213; One Dimensional Man, 219, 284; as a “reactionary,” 388; Reason and Revolution: Hegel and the Rise of Social Theory, 211, 229. See also Frankfurt School

Margalit, Avishai, 223, 420–23, 430, 470

Maritain, Jacques, 40, 180

Marquard, Odo, 462, 465–68, 515

Marquardt, Friedrich-Wilhelm, 312

Marx, Karl, 65–79, 106, 121, 160, 278, 439; Capital, 363; Eighteenth Brumaire, 152; German Ideology, 229

Marxism: 152, 154, 167, 180; aesthetics of, 456; and antisemitism, 294; and Christianity, 46; eschatology of, 72; philosophical defense of, 46; radical, 305–88, 407, 501. See also communism; Leninism; Maoism; Marx, Karl; New Left; socialism

Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), 208, 220

Mattenklott, Gert, 388

Matthes & Seitz Verlag, 499

Maurer, Reinhart, 389, 394

May, Rollo: Love and Will, 246

McCulloch, Warren, 220

Meah She’arim, 146, 153–54, 417–21, 428–30, 434–35, 484. See also Jerusalem

Meier, Christian, 331–32

Meinhof, Ulrike, 372–93, 458

Mendelssohn, Moses: Jerusalem, 153

Mendes-Flohr, Paul, 320, 418

Menninghaus, Winfried, 442, 470, 485, 495, 504–5

For general queries, contact info@press.princeton.edu
Merkur (magazine), 339
Merton, Robert K., 238
Merve Verlag, 313, 472, 502
messianism: antinomian, 191, 211; apocalypticism and, 57, 60; of Jesus of Nazareth, 77, 191, 433, 490–91; of Judaism, 57, 66, 228, 247; of Marxism, 72; and Zionism, 23, 422, 424, 430. See also eschatology; Jesus of Nazareth metaphysics: abandonment of, 464; attack on, 201; of Gnosticism, 420
Michel, Karl Markus, 281, 413, 458
Michelson, Annette, 137, 254
Mittelstrass, Jürgen, 407
Mizrachi movement, 20, 30, 150, 300, 422–24. See also Zionism
Mohler, Armin, 48–50, 73, 116, 156–59, 196, 262–66, 283, 498–502; biography of, 540n78; The Conservative Revolution in Germany, 1918–1932: An Outline of Its Worldviews, 49–50; right-wing views of, 374, 456; the death of God and, 136; European, 81, 223; Paul’s stance toward the Roman Empire as, 492; Sabbatian, 95; sense of spiritual election and, 70
Niebuhr, Reinhold, 92, 189, 202, 546n104
Nietzsche, Friedrich, 54, 87, 165, 185, 190, 224–25, 251, 264, 313; The Antichrist, 54, 473, 493; contention that God is dead of, 160; Daybreak, 493; and National Socialism, 224; On the Genealogy of Morals, 473; and Paul, 255–56, 329, 472–73, 491–93; radical critique of Christianity of, 65; The Will to Power, 504
nihilism, 56, 70, 116; anticapitalist, 521; cosmic, 68, 260; the death of God and, 136; European, 81, 223; Paul’s stance toward the Roman Empire as, 492; Sabbatian, 95; sense of spiritual election and, 70
Nipperdey, Thomas, 333, 375–76
Nissim, Yitzhak, 300
Nock, Arthur Darby, 212, 220, 223–24, 282
Nolte, Ernst, 333, 376, 409–14, 474, 477, 482; Deutschland und der Kalte Krieg, 410; Der Faschismus in seiner Epoche (Three Faces of Fascism), 333
“Nostra Aetate,” 40
Notgemeinschaft für eine freie Universität (NofU), 364, 375–78, 400. See also Bund Freiheit der Wissenschaft (BfdW)
Notstandsgesetz (Emergency Law), 337
Ohnesorg, Benno, 340, 370
Ornstein, Hans, 106
Ostjuden (Eastern European Jews), 10, 32. See also Judaism
Oswald, Niko, 319
Overbeck, Franz, 54, 55, 65, 184, 302, 494, 505; Christentum und Kultur (Christendom and Culture), 55, 216
Pagels, Elaine: The Gnostic Gospels, 385
Pappenheim, Raphuel, 418
Pareigis, Christina, 518
Paris, 47–48, 180, 282, 292; bookstores of, 283; friends in, 50, 210, 254, 328; the Marais quarter in, 469–70
Paris, Heidi, 472
Paris Bar, 437, 443, 482, 488, 496–97
Parkes, James: The Conflict of the Church and the Synagogue: A Study in the Origins of Antisemitism, 513
Parousia, 77, 252
Pascal, Blaise, 47, 167
Pauker, Anna, 398
Paul: antinomianism of, 127, 162, 171, 192, 211, 427–29, 436, 487–94, 509, 512, 521; apocalypticism of, 77, 493; Epistle to the Galatians, 509; Epistle to the Romans, 2; as a Gnostic, 76–77; Jewish interpretation of, 66n42; Protestant interpretation of, 40, 491. See also antinomianism; Christianity; law; theology
Paul, Jean, 153
Peterson, Erik, 310, 460–61, 606n46; The Church of Jews and Pagans, 39–40
Petras, Otto: Post Christentum, 77, 79
Pharisees: antecedents of the, 21; Barth on the, 185; critique of Jesus of the, 427; and Paul, 90; and Sadducees, 21; as a self-created elite, 514. See also Jesus of Nazareth; Judaism philosophy: Anglo-American analytic, 167, 222; and Christianity, 160; continental European, 167, 210; history of, 244. See also atheism; philosophy of history; philosophy of religion; theology philosophy of history, 53, 64, 465; Hege- lian, 259; Jewish and Christian origins of, 506; and living religious tradition, 248; Marxist, 278; progressive, 74. See also philosophy philosophy of religion, 232, 238, 259; medieval Jewish, 116. See also philosophy; theology
Pike, James, 239
Pines, Shlomo, 419–21, 430, 490, 494
Plato: Laws, 116; Symposium, 252
Podhoretz, Norman, 228, 250, 305, 323
Poetik und Hermeneutik, 323–32, 344, 449, 462, 466, 478, 505
Polanyi, Karl, 385
Polanyi, Michael, 282 political theology, 57, 203–8, 453–79, 516. See also theology
Popper, Karl, 334; The Open Society and Its Enemies, 217 postcolonial studies, 512
posthistoire, 472, 520
Preuves: une revue européenne à Paris (magazine), 47
Przywara, Erich, 232
psychology: and mysticism, 174; political, 261; social, 385
Quine, W.V.O., 209, 222
Raddatz, Fritz, 387, 400
Ragaz, Leonhard, 33, 537n18
Randall, John Herman, 244, 246
Rashi, 11, 42, 319
Rawls, John: Theory of Justice, 385
Reb Arele Hasidim, 417–18, 428, 430–31, 434. See also Toldot Aharon (Reb Arele Hasidim)
Red Army Faction (RAF), 372, 406, 458. See also terrorism
Red Cells (Rote Zellen), 350, 366–67, 377–78, 388
Reform Judaism, 17–18, 241, 248. See also Judaism
Rehavia, 93, 145, 147, 160. See also Jerusalem
Reihe Theorie, 279–81, 309, 314, 326, 384–86, 409, 412–14, 462. See also Suhrkamp Verlag religion, as academic discipline, 238–40, 248. See also biblical criticism
Religionsgeschichte, 73
Revolution: American, 207; apocalyptic, 79; class consciousness of, 198; and eschatology, 208, 228; French, 207; as a mystique, 228; Russian, 207. See also communism
Ricoeur, Paul, 245, 332
Rieff, Philip, 211–14, 217, 224, 226–27, 256; Fellow Teachers, 213; Freud: The Mind of the Moralist, 214, 256
Riezler, Kurt, 112, 203
Ritter, Joachim, 287–88, 385, 465
Rockefeller Foundation, 203
Roman Catholicism, 17, 185; conversion to, 39, 69, 168, 321, 428, 441, 458; Neo-Thomism of, 330; rejection of, 293. See also Christianity
Rosen, Pinchas, 157, 556n59
Rosenstock, Eugen, 190, 193–95, 204; Out of Revolution: Autobiography of Western Man, 203
Rotenstreich, Natan, 149
Roth, Aharon (Arele), 417
Ruetters, Axel, 413
Russell, Bertrand, 165
Rzewski, Frederic, 215
Sabbatai Zevi, 69, 78, 94–95, 108, 127, 162, 191, 250, 320, 415, 433–40, 491, 521. See also Sabbatian movement
Sabbatian movement, 94–95, 247, 433–34. See also Judaism; Sabbatai Zevi
Salamanter, Rachel, 484
Salomon, Albert, 112, 123, 475
Sander, Hans-Dietrich, 453–69; characterization of Taubes of, 469, 500–501; The Dissolution of All Things (Die Auflösung aller Dinge), 500
Santillana, Giorgio de, 220
Sarna, Nahum, 259
Sartre, Jean-Paul, 309, 386; Critique of Dialectical Reason, 386
Satmar Rebbe. See Teitelbaum, Joel ("Reb Yoilish"), Satmar Rebbe
Schafer, Peter, 346, 401
Schapiro, Meyer, 244, 327
Schatzmiller, Joseph, 450
Scheindlin, Janet (Aviad), 297–99, 360–61
Schelsky, Helmut, 288
Schily, Otto, 339
Schlesier, Renate, 443, 448, 494–95
Schlicht, Uwe, 388–89, 406–7, 498
Schmidt-Biggemann, Wilhelm, 443, 447, 495
Schneerson, Menachem, 480. See also Lubavitch
Schnittzer, Arthur, 22
Schocken, Salman, 105
Schoeps, Hans Joachim, 189–91
Schopenhauer, Arthur, 81, 223
Schorsch, Ismar, 259
Schulte, Christoph, 444, 504, 507
Schutz, Alfred, 112, 195
Schütz, Klaus, 349, 365, 374
Schwab, George, 261
Schwan, Alexander, 342, 375–77
Schwarz, Adolf, 18–19
Schweitzer, Albert, 211; Von Reimarus zu Wrede: Eine Geschichte der Leben-Jesu-Forschung, 53
Schweizerische Heimatwehr (Swiss Home Guard), 33
Schweizerischer Israelitischer Gemeindebund (Union of Swiss Jewish Communities), 36
Schweizerischer Rabbiner-Verbandes (Swiss Rabbinic Association), 36
Sebag, Lucien: Marxisme et structuralisme, 282 secularization: of apocalypticism, 63–65; of Christianity, 184; debates on, 63; of eschatology, 65–66, 72–75, 79, 195; political theology and, 61; religion and, 59–61; Weber and, 60–61
Seelisberg Conference (International Emergency Conference on Antisemitism), 40, 90
Seligsohn, Gerda (Seligson), 131–33, 136, 167, 291, 297
Seminar für das orthodoxe Judentum (Berlin), 18
Shalom Hartman Institute, 423, 428
Shazar, Zalman, 300
Shklar, Judith, 224
Siemens Foundation (Munich), 456
Sigrist, Marcel, 429
Silvers, Robert, 359, 361
Simon, Ernst (Akiva), 93, 103, 117–22, 132, 147, 150–55, 160, 169, 188, 404
Simpson, William W., 90
Simpson, Otto von, 350
 Singer, Isaac Bashevis: Satan in Goray, 253, 291
Sirkis, Joel: Bayit Chadash, 27
Situationists, 312, 337–38, 344, 353
Six Day War, 352, 421. See also Israel
Sloterdijk, Peter, 506, 517
Smith, Morton, 258, 272
socialism, 85, 274; intellectuals of, 227–28. See also communism; Marxism
Social Science Information (journal), 436
Sokel, Walter, 242
Soloveitchik, Joseph, 249
Soloveitchik, Moshe, 50, 496
Sombart, Nicolaus, 473–77, 484; The German Men and Their Enemies, 474; Youth in Berlin, 474
Sontheimer, Kurt, 375, 502
Soviet Union, 10, 107, 227, 198, 274, 284, 351, 410
Sozialdemokratischen Hochschulbund (Social Democratic Academic League), 274
Sozialistischer Deutscher Studentenbund (Socialist German Student League) (SDS), 273–74, 277, 294, 399–13, 338–53, 366–72, 442
Spengler, Oswald: Decline of the West (Untergang des Abendlandes), 53, 471
Sperber, Manès, 47
Spiegel, Der (magazine), 294, 343–45, 360, 368, 377, 405–6, 498–500
Spinoza, Baruch, 160–64, 306, 415–19, 427, 433, 461; Ethics, 196; Hobbes and, 5, 113, 119, 330, 458; Maimonides and, 115; Theological-Political Treatise, 163–64, 196; Zionist view of, 163
Spitzer, Sally, 480
Stahl, Friedrich Julius, 502
Stahmer, Harold, 257, 302–4, 393
Staiger, Emil, 51, 89, 285, 494
Stein, Werner, 363–64, 376–79, 389
Steinberg, Milton, 124, 129–30
Stendahl, Brita, 215, 391
Stendahl, Kristin, 40, 211, 215–16, 226, 306, 358, 391; Paul among the Jews and Gentiles, 513; on Paul’s theology, 245
Stern, Avraham, 151
Stern, David, 432, 434–35
Stimilli, Elettra, 517
Strauss, Leo, 93, 140–41, 153–54, 158–59, 161, 165, 179, 182, 188, 211, 225–26, 228, 242–43, 247, 282, 287, 309, 341, 419, 458; as Jewish student of Heidegger, 65, 158; and the Maimonides seminar, 112–25; Natural Right and Strauss, Leo (continued)
  History, 203; Persecution and the Art of Writing, 6; Philosophie und Gesetz (Philosophy and Law), 113; on the "theological-political predicament," 113; tutoring of Taubes by, 1, 110–12
Strauss, Michael, 404
Stroumsa, Guy, 419–20, 490, 494, 506
Stroumsa, Sarah, 420
surrealism: history of, 339; legacy of, 312; poetry of, 328; Taubes on, 328–29, 520
Susman, Margarete, 33, 43, 66, 80, 90, 96–97, 107, 306–7
Sweden, 38
Swedish Theological Institute (Tabor House), 428
Swiss Council of Churches, 37
Switzerland: emigration to, 59; Jews of, 29–51, 82, 84–86; neutrality of, 91; postwar, 84; public opinion in, 38; trains carrying Jews from, 1; visits of Taubes to, 261
Symposion: Jahrbuch für Philosophie (annual), 159
Syndikat Verlag, 413
Tagesspiegel (newspaper), 377, 388, 496
Tagesszeitung, Die (newspaper), 475, 496–98, 502, 508
Talmon, Jacob, 435
Talmon, Shmaryahu, 175–76
Talmon, Yonina Gerber, 175
Talmud, 13–22, 42, 100–101, 119, 121, 125–26, 258–59, 262, 300
Talpiot, 144, 147, 166
Tanna'im, 21
Tantur Ecumenical Institute, 428
Taubes (family name), 9, 11–12, 12
Taubes, Aharon Moshe, 12, 13, 27
Taubes, Chava Leah, 12, 13, 14, 34
Taubes, Ethan, 182, 307, 358, 391; birth of, 181–82; education of, 249, 292, 299, 391; tension with Brentano of, 391–92; wedding of, 395, 481
Taubes, Feige (Fanny), 12, 23–31, 82, 86, 104, 108–9, 133, 136, 141, 143, 237, 485
Taubes, (Haim) Zvi Hirsch, 1, 12, 14–15, 18–41, 47, 62, 84–86, 92, 102, 104–9, 133, 136–37, 141, 143, 261–62, 273, 299–300, 323, 489, 491; death of, 300, 485; "Jesus and the Halakah," 21; Otzar ha-geonim le-masekhet Sanhedrin, 300; as Zionist, 20, 30, 422 of, 24–25; as sociologist of religion, 53, 235, 236, 312–16; treatment with ECT of, 395; way of reading books of, 140, 234, 242, 282–83, 313; wedding to Susan Feldmann of, 1, 137–38; Yiddish of, 250

Taubes, Jacob, works by:
Abendländische Eschatologie (Occidental Eschatology), 53, 72, 81, 124, 183, 194–95, 203, 207–11, 252, 309, 315, 383–85, 463;
Ad Carl Schmitt, 501, 503, 515–16; “As Circumstances Demand” (lecture), 352; “Beliefs and Ideas in Nineteenth Century Theology” (essay), 160; “The Development of the Ontological Question in Recent German Philosophy” (article), 160; “Dialectic and Analogy” (essay), 186; “Dilemmas of a Charismatic Community, a Case Study of Corinth” (paper), 246; “The Disenchantment of Theology: Toward a Portrait of Overbeck” (essay), 54; “Four Ages of Reason” (lecture), 221, 284; “The Intellectuals and the University” (essay), 283–85; “The Issue between Judaism and Christianity” (essay), 125; “The Justification of the Ugly in the Early Christian Tradition” (paper), 329; “Notes on an Ontological Interpretation of Theology” (article), 159; “Notes on Surrealism” (paper), 329; “On the Current Trend of Polytheism” (“Zur Konjunktur der Polytheismus”) (essay), 467; “On the Nature of the Theological Method” (essay), 187, 560n10; “On the Symbolic Order of Modern Democracy” (article), 206;
Die politische Theologie des Paulus (Political Theology of Paul), 494, 501–6, 515; “The Price of Messianism” (article), 432, 436; “Reprieve from the Gallows: The Apocalyptic Experience of Time, Past and Present” (“Galgenfrist. Apokalyptische Zeiterfahrung einst und jetzt”) (lecture), 487; “Theology and the Philosophic Critique of Religion” (article), 560n10

Taubes, Mirjam (Dreyfus), 23, 31, 82, 86, 104–5, 136–37, 143, 299–300, 485

Taubes, Shmuel Shmelke, 13

Taubes, Susan (Feldmann), 133–43, 138, 139, 143, 237, 292, 354, 358–62, 391, 438, 451, 478, 481, 494, 518–19; African Myths and Tales, 292; estrangement and divorce from Jacob Taubes of, 271, 291–93, 303–4; Lament for Julia, 293; The Storytelling Stone: Myths and Tales of the American Indians, 292; teaching at Columbia of, 241, 292; views on Judaism of, 164–71, 188. See also Divorce; Sontag, Susan; Weil, Simone

Taubes, Yaakov (of Lvov), 12, 13

Taubes, Yissachar Dov, 12, 14

Taylor, Charles, 224, 282

technique: dialectical, 76; of Maimonides, 115; of modern humanistic scholarship, 53; traditional theological, 187; triumph of, 56 technology: alienated world of, 75, 79; and America, 106–7; and civilization, 50, 58–59; cult of, 49; skeptical attitude to, 49

Teitelbaum, Joel (“Reb Yoilish”), Satmar Rebbe, 43–44, 51, 105, 126, 188, 249, 418 terrorism: of the Abu Nidal Organization, 470; connection of Taubes to, 372–73; left-wing, 371; Palestinian, 373. See also Red Army Faction (RAF)

Thadden, Rudolf von, 440

theology: analogical, 186; atheistic, 159, 187; Catholic, 78; political, 473; Protestant, 244; tropes of Christian, 58; view of Taubes of, 88, 159. See also apocalypticism; Christianity; crisis theology; dialectical theology; eschatology; God; Judaism; neo-orthodoxy; Paul; philosophy; philosophy of religion; political theology

Theunissen, Michael, 311, 407–8, 494

Thiessen, Rudi, 488

Thomas Aquinas, 78, 186, 223

Tiedemann, Rolf, 289, 301, 311, 412

Tillich, Paul, 85, 105, 141, 185–86, 190, 203–4, 212; Die sozialistische Entscheidung (The Socialist Decision), 85, 216
Wechsler, Judith. See Glatzer, Judith (Wechsler)
Wehler, Hans-Ulrich, 411
Weigel, Sigrid, 518
Weil, Eric, 168
Weil, Felix, 197
Weil, Simone, 155, 165, 168–70, 187, 212, 230–31, 296, 427, 440, 518; L’Enracinement, 168
Weimar Republic, 61, 274. See also Germany
Weinberg, Jehiel Jacob, 18, 45–46
Weinberg, Marianne, 348, 437, 485
Weinberg, Sigi, 348, 437
Weingort, Miriam, 306
Weischedel, Wilhelm, 280, 293, 345, 367
Weiss, Erna, 322–23
Weiss, Miriam, 145, 174, 322–23
Weiss, Paul, 135, 141, 159, 233
Weiss Halivni, David, 258–59, 300
Weisz, David, 495–96
Weizmann, Chaim, 20, 477
Wellhausen, Julius, 21
Welt, Die (newspaper), 363, 366–68, 377, 388, 403, 456, 498, 517
Weltwoche, Die (cultural weekly), 47, 59
Werblowsky, Zwi, 450
Werth, Wolfgang, 350
Wesel, Uwe, 349, 365, 377–78
West Germany, 4, 67, 264, 267–69, 286; democracy in, 277; Jewish intellectuals in, 272–73; and National Socialism, 294; cultural politics of, 156, 269; reparations from the government of, 156; universities of, 273, 323. See also Berlin; East Germany; Free University (Freie Universität) Berlin; Germany
Weyl, Hermann, 140
White, Morton, 223
Wiesel, Eli, 11
Wieseltier, Leon, 425–26, 449
Wild, John, 212

Vaterländische Verband (Patriotic Union, Switzerland), 33
Vesper, Bernward, 372–73
Vienna, 9–28
Vilna Shas, 13
Visscher Hooft, W. A., 38
Vlastos, Gregory, 234
Vogt, Paul, 36–38, 90–91

Wach, Joachim, 105, 140
Wahl, Jean, 168, 233
Waldoks, Moshe, 429
Wallenberg, Raoul, 36
Wapnewski, Monika, 477–78
Wapnewski, Peter, 447, 477
Williams, George, 219
Wirszubski, Chaim, 164
Wismann, Heinz, 439–40, 482, 486, 495, 504
Wissenschaft des Judentums, 15–22,
95–96, 101–4, 259, 268–70, 317, 428
Wissenschaftskolleg zu Berlin, 436–37,
474, 477
Wolfson, Harry Austryn, 209, 258, 317
Working Group on the Theory of Religion and Political Theology, 466
Wulf, Joseph, 373–75
Wyschogrod, Edith, 299, 302, 340, 345
Wyschogrod, Michael, 244, 259, 299–304,
308, 394–95, 449, 513

See also Judaism
Yeshiva University, 85, 100, 249
yichus (distinguished ancestry), 9–28
Zeit, Die (newspaper), 343–44, 371, 378,
400, 477
Zeitschrift für Sozialforschung (journal),
197, 200, 277, 290, 386
Zentrum für Literaturforschung (ZfL)
(Berlin), 517–18
Zhidichover Rebbe. See Eichenstein, Zwi-
Hirsch (Zhidichover Rebbe)
Zimmermann, Hans Dieter, 380
Zionism: and Arab-Jewish cooperation,
103; cultural, 113; liberal, 430; messianic, 422, 424, 430; movement of,
19–23, 90; and Orthodox Judaism,
20; and Palestine, 90–92; religious,
422; World Zionist Congress, 300.
See also Israel; Judaism; Mizrachi movement
Zipkes, Rudolf, 73, 80, 180
Žižek, Slavoj, 508, 512–13